

GC Council reacts to alcohol abuse claim

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH

Members of the Granite City council defeated a motion Tuesday night that would have required the city to pay the medical costs for any city ficial or employee who seeks help for an alcohol or drug addiction problem at any recognized facility.

The motion—which was rejected by all the aldermen except Woodrow "Woody" Moad, who proposed it—met with opposition because there already is such a program available at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Members feel allowing the officials and employees to utilize any other facility would greatly increase the city's costs.

THE DISCUSSION surrounding the alcohol/drug program began after a letter from Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer was read to the council. In the letter, Whitmer said that Moad had made some serious and unsupported accusations against council members and city officials in a Granite City Journal newspaper article. In the article, Moad said that a series of events have happened that point to a drinking problem among a handful of people. Moad said in the article that this problem was affecting these people's judgment on city matters.

Whitmer's letter requested that Moad name the people he was talking about and point out the events to which he was referring.

After Whitmer's letter was read, Alderman Stephen S. Smith commented that he thought the letter was well written. "I thought about writing one myself," he said. "I think this (the Journal article) is in very bad taste. If Mr. Moad would want to name the people, I'd like to hear them named. Also I think he (Moad) owes the city officials, the city administrators and the employees an apology."

WHITMER SAID he wanted to make another comment. He said he wrote the letter because he was told that Moad had named who he was referring to and this man from the Journal said, "If it's any consolation to you, your name wasn't mentioned," said Whitmer. "I said 'that's no consolation to me that you know or Mr. Moad knows. What about the general public? What do they know?'"

Whitmer went on to commend the Press-Record for its responsible handling of the issue and said he feels the publicity given to the issue by the Journal is "yellow journalism."

"You know, I've been on this council for 500 years (sic). And I've never seen any individual under the influence of liquor when they come to this council meeting—they might have had some beers—gee, I've smelled it on them, Bob's (Stephens, city clerk) smelled it on them—but they knew what they were doing. All of us know it—they knew what they were doing."

"TO COME OUT WITH something like this has black-carded the whole city administration...and he (Moad) is absolutely wrong. Mr. Moad has lowered his credibility in my opinion. From now on, when he tells me something when he comes on the council floor, if I'm not exactly sure of exactly what he is saying, I will be an alcohol problem not to point any fingers at them individually.

"I know that 99 percent of the city personnel are good hard-working and caring employees. I did specify that the problem involves only a handful of people. It is too bad their actions reflect on all of us. Because of excessive drinking by certain individuals, a morale problem exists in some departments of the city."

FROM WENT ON TO say that he made the problem public because "people have been saying it under their breaths for a long time." He voting against it...because from now on, I don't trust the man—not when he comes out with something like this."

Alderman Moad then read a prepared statement to the council. "I realize I brought out a problem that no one wants to talk about in this council," he said. "I think it is in the best interest of those who have also said that he hopes the publicity surrounding the alcohol abuse accusation will help those individuals having a problem to seek the help they need.

Moad said one of the specific events he was referring to in the published article was a meeting at

County helps fund Reliable Nesco buy

By SUSANNE INDELIATO

The Madison County Board voted yesterday to participate in the employee buyout of the Reliable Nesco steel barrel manufacturing plant at 10th Street and Cleveland Boulevard in downtown Granite City.

County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer told the board that a loan of $150,000 will be made to the employees in their efforts to purchase the plant from Plant Industries in Hackensack, N.J. The loan is drawn from the Community Service Block Grant program, administered by the Madison County Community Development Department.

THE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT Department received money from a state pool of $1.2 million for economic development.

Hagnauer said the loan will be made for a seven-year term at three percent interest. It will be collateralized by a first mortgage on the major pieces of equipment and a second mortgage on the remaining equipment.

"All the money, with the interest, will be paid back to the county," Hagnauer predicted, adding that the funds coming back into county coffers can be used to help finance other economic development projects.

IF THE BUYOUT goes through, he said, Reliable Nesco will be able to retain 42 jobs and add another 10.

Reliable Nesco consultant Al Zamarione told the Press-Record that the loan will not cover all the costs of the buyout, and that additional financing may have to come from various financial institutions.

Zamarione said the buyout has not been finalized and he does not expect consummation of the deal for another month.

HE CALLED THE employee buyout plan an "opportunity you get once in a lifetime." He said the buyout by the employees would allow them "to become their own boss."

Public hearing on park pool's future is Monday

A large turnout is being urged for Monday evening's public hearing on the future of the Wilson Park Pool.

Park board members have stressed that they are not advocating any single alternative, but want public response so they can find out whether the general public would like to repair the deteriorating swimming pool, close it or build a new pool. Information on costs of operation and repairs to the pool,

The board approved similar action for Hills Fine Candies, Inc. in Collinsville. A loan of $100,000 for equipment purchases will be granted to the company representatives for a 10-year period at three percent interest.

A resolution amending the budget so the county could administer the community services block grant program also was adopted by the board.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board adopted a resolution recommending that the United States Economic Development Administration designate the seven-county region of Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Washington, Clinton and Bond Counties as an Economic Development District.

The resolution further recommended that the staff of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and the Regional Planning Commission be designated as the "technical and professional staff arm of the economic development organization to be created for the benefit" of the seven-county region.

The board amended its budget to accept a $139,000 grant for counseling programs and related activities for Madison County veterans. This program will be administered jointly by the Employment and Training Department and the Madison County Veterans' Assistance Office.

THE BOARD also adopted the new rules and regulations set up by the Freedom of Information Act, adopted resolutions to pay any expenses incurred by the county in objecting to petitions for tax assessment reductions by Illinois Power Company and Consolidated Aluminum Corp., and accepted sewer easements granted by Riechmann Enterprises, Inc. The company, which is located north of Chain of Rocks Road and west of Route 3, recently hooked its sewer into the county sewer system and gave the easement and sewer to the county.

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. Monday in the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Schools study bonds, notes

By BILL WINTER

Hobbled by erosion of the two biggest state-processed fund sources, Granite City school officials acted Tuesday night to develop new short-term and long-range financial strategies.

Don M. Lindberg, vice president of Dougherty, Dawkins, Strand & Yost, Inc., was chosen to coordinate planning for loans and debt reduction.

THE FIRST recommendations from the Minneapolis-based investment banking firm are to be considered next Tuesday, June 28.

No specific approach has been selected as yet but a clue to one of the alternatives may be in the upcoming Board of Education agenda—possible elimination of the working class fund.

President David Partney and Superintendent B.J. Davis acknowledged after Tuesday's 2½-hour session that the price of financial coordination may be austerity—rigid avoidance of even obviously-justified spending increases.

IF BUYERS are to be found for low-rated bonds, notes, warrants, orders or other borrowing mechanisms, it was indicated, the district may have to prove that it is on its "best behavior"—ignoring the siren song of any and all proposals to buy, expand, reward or enhance.

To put its financial house in order, experts believe, School District Nine must make good on its goal of ending cost-revenue imbalances and then embark on a limited-duration program to rid itself of operating debt.

The district has had few recent chances to invest funds, instead finding it necessary to borrow against both current and later real estate taxation.

SECOND-YEAR LOANS are known to restrict the number of options open to a taxing body.

A bond or note sale this year is seen as brightening the outlook in several ways, including instant return of the ability to invest. This would result in money "once again working for the taxpayers instead of against them," authorities say.

It is this kind of brighter outlook that is visualized as fostering citizen support for refinancing aims, even if some rate alteration initially is required.

FINANCE DIRECTOR Norman Owca may not know with certainty until July 20 whether the district achieved a balance for the 1983-84 year ending nine days from now, he said after Tuesday's board meeting.

Barge hands reading more

Jim Hearn, librarian at the Granite City Army Installation and a resident of Granite City, is making the long days on the Mississippi River a little more enjoyable for the crew members of the river tows passing by Granite City. Several times each week, Hearn visits Locks No. 27 here, adjacent to the Army installation, and lowers buckets of magazines and paperback books to the anxiously awaiting river tow crews.

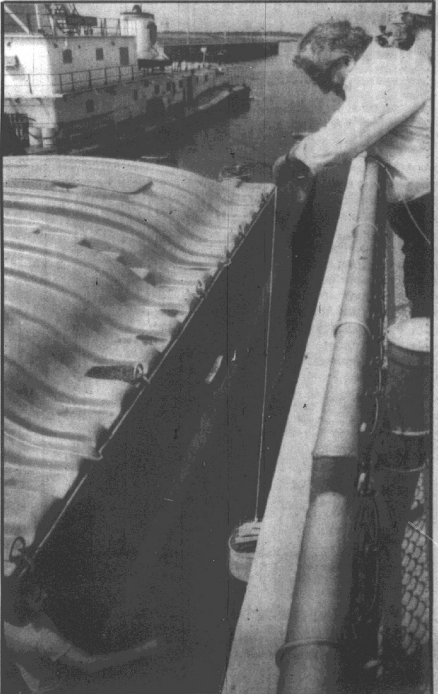

"This might not seem like much, but for the crew members who work for 30-day stretches on the river, the magazines and books help them pass the long days." They really appreciate them (the books), Hearn said.

"I usually come over to the locks on Sunday and Monday in the late afternoon, my two days off," he said. But Hearn does make other visits to the locks to distribute the magazines and books which friends and other people give to him. Some weeks he's there every night after work, sometimes staying as late as 10.

"As long as there are barges locking through, I stay and give the crews the books," Hearn said. "When I give out the last magazine in my car, I will have given out 2,525 of them since Feb. 18," he said proudly. "I've been doing this for three years, but haven't kept count until now."

The barge crews haven't been keeping count either, but they always have a big "Thank" for Hearn each time he lowers his yellow, plastic bucket full of "new" books for them.

Percy, Dixon want Senate televised

By Robert Estill

DR. EARL LAZER-SOBY, President of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the St. Louis National Stockyards Company, National Stock Yards, Ill.

WASHINGTON — Despite the "CamScan" donnybrook over television coverage of the House, Illinois Sens. Charles Percy and Alan Dixon would like to see the TV cameras trained on the Senate.

Percy and Dixon are co-sponsors of a resolution by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., that would authorize televising proceedings in the Senate.

The House has been broadcasting floor debates and speeches via the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network to C-SPAN's potential audience of 17 million homes for five years. The ratings indicate that the House "performances" have a steady audience of 200,000 to 250,000 people.

Dixon said Baker, who is retiring when this term ends in January, plans to call the resolution for a vote before the end of the year, but that the pro-TV cause has not been helped by the recent TV turmoil in the House.

The flap between House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr., D-Mass., and Republicans has re-awakened concern about disrupting decorum and lawmakers' grandstanding for the cameras.

A band of about a dozen conservative Republicans have been using the "special orders" period — a time for speeches at the close of regular business when the House is nearly empty — to rail against the Democratic leadership and press for a conservative agenda.

The sore festered when Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., made a speech that O'Neill contended impugned the patriotism of House Democrats and gave the erroneous impression that Democrats were present but chose not to defend themselves.

Without alerting the Republicans, O'Neill ordered the cameras to take wide shots during "special orders" to show that the chambers were virtually empty. That was a change from the policy of keeping the camera focused on the person speaking during the regular session and the "special orders" period.

Republicans countered by proposing wide shots be used during the regular session, showing how the chambers often are nearly empty during debate and also showing the "arm-twisting" and vote-switching that goes on during roll-call votes. Currently, the cameras do not show any floor action during votes.

Dixon conceded that it "gets pretty hairy in the House." He noted the recent O'Neill-conservative tiff and the incident in the 1982 elections when House Republican Leader Bob Michel's Democratic opponent used a television tape of a Michel floor speech on Social Security against the Peorian in a television commercial. Although that action violated House rules, there was nothing the Republicans could do but gripe because Michel's rival was not a member of Congress and thus not subject to its rules or sanctions.

Nevertheless, Dixon said the Senate "should let people see what we do on the floor of the U.S. Senate" even if it means that he, for example, might draw criticism from viewers for a speech that otherwise might escape public attention.

Dixon, however, does not want the camera eye to be all-seeing. He favors keeping the camera riveted on the speaker instead of panning the Senate chamber, which also rarely has a full cast except during roll call votes. Otherwise, he said, the camera might catch a lawmaker grabbing a few quick winks during a late-night session. That would be "understandable but embarrassing" if captured for the C-SPAN audience, Dixon said.

He also would like to see the cameras on only during periods agreed to by the majority and minority leadership, not the gavel-to-gavel coverage envisioned in the Baker resolution. But Dixon said he will support the resolution even if it is not changed.

A Percy aide said Percy sees televised Senate proceedings as a "tremendous educational tool that would help further understanding of the issues."

The aide said there might not be as many problems in the Senate as there have been in the House because the membership is smaller — 100 senators compared to 435 representatives.

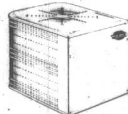

One problem that would exist in the Senate is the possibility of someone hogging the microphone and cameras for hours. Unlike the House, the Senate allows members to talk as long as they like unless there is a vote to close the debate. However, the aide said peer pressure has reduced the use of the filibuster considerably.

Dixon and Democratic Reps. Paul Simon of Makanda, Melvin Price of East St. Louis and Chicagoans Dan Rostenkowski, William Lipinski, Charles Hayes and Frank Annunzio all rank as "Big Spenders" in a new rating of lawmakers by the National Taxpayers Union.

On the other hand, the conservative Crane brothers, Dan of Danville and Philip of Mount Prospect, rank among the most tight-fisted House members in the NTU's ratings.

On Aug. 17 Luncheon for Dal Maxvill

Granite Cityans will have two opportunities to honor one of its favorite sons, Dal Maxvill, on Friday, Aug. 17.

In addition to Granite City Community Night at Busch Stadium, which has already been slated for that evening, Granite Cityans will be able to attend a luncheon that afternoon for Maxvill at Charlie's Restaurant.

Maxvill, a member of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals' World Series teams in 1964 and 1967 and now a coach with the Atlanta Braves, will be in St. Louis as the Braves begin a three-game series with the Redbirds.

MAXVILL, who grew up and played Little League baseball in Granite City, is perhaps best known by Cardinal fans for his clutch hit in the seventh game of the '67 World Series which sparked the Redbirds to a Series victory over the Boston Red Sox.

In addition to the two World Series that Maxie spent with the Cardinals, he was later traded to the Oakland Athletics of the American League and went on to shine for A's during their heyday in the early '70's.

TICKETS for the luncheon are $20 and may be purchased at the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce office or the Financial Planning Center, 3701 Nameoki Road. Tickets for Granite City Community Night at Busch Stadium will be made available by the Cardinal organization in two weeks and may be purchased at the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce, the Financial Planning Center, the Press Record Sports Desk and area grocery stores.

James J. Ortiz, 55, of Edwardsville, was arrested last week at Granite City police headquarters and charged with battery in connection with an incident occurring two days earlier at Leyden and Denver streets, involving Beverly Wickham of the 2800 block of Denver.

Mrs. Wickham told police that a man followed her home and when she got out of her car, the man struck her face with his fist. The assailant then left heading north on Route 3.

Mrs. Wickham had swelling around her right eye and blood was coming from her nose, the investigating officer noted. Ortiz was released after posting a $102 cash bond.

News notes

Supt. of Schools Robert Lynn, who was opposed by the Alton Education Association, was dismissed Tuesday night in a 6-1 vote by the Alton Board of Education.

A merger with another financial institution is likely for the ailing Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, its chairman, David G. Taylor, said Wednesday. The Illinois Senate has passed a bill allowing Continental to merge with an out-of-state firm. Similar legislation was approved 16-1 yesterday by the Illinois House Financial Institutions Committee.

Gene Crivello, Alton, regional director of the American Lung Association of Illinois, has retired. His role in Madison, Jersey and Calhoun counties will be handled by Lee Ann Baker, Marissa, based at the Wood River office.

Three tall trees are to be removed from land adjacent to the wall of the Madison County jail recreation yard because they afford a way to "break into jail."

The Granite City Board of Education this week authorized Biebel Brothers, for $4,885, to repair a slate roof area of Granite City High School. The board earlier accepted the $1,125 low bid of Whitehead Roofing but that company then said it would not do the work for that amount.

Already extended once, a wiretap order related to a special grand jury investigation of assessment problems will not be extended again, Circuit Judge John DeLaurenti said this week. "Now that it has been disclosed, perhaps there is no point in the special prosecutor seeking another extension," the judge said.

Illinois senators have approved raising the state hotel and motel room tax from the present five percent to six percent. The bill boosts from 10 to 40 percent the amount of room tax revenue devoted to tourism development. The same plan calls for expanding the McCormick Place convention center in Chicago and providing financial help for the 1992 Chicago World's Fair.

CATCH OF THE DAY. Mrs. Rose Fields pulls in her 12th fish of the day during a senior citizen outing Tuesday at the Wade Rollins clubhouse on Revielle Lane. A barbecue was later enjoyed by those attending the social gathering. The fish were biting, but, unfortunately for those fishing, most were of the size pictured. (Photo by Patrick Foley)

Charge drivers after accident

An accident in the 2200 block of Ohio Avenue at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday, resulted in arrest of three people, with one man being charged with assault.

Involved in the mishap were Bob Wallace, 51, of 2235 Ohio Ave., whose northbound auto allegedly sideswiped the side of another car headed north driven by Richard Lee Keeton, 21, of 2930 Morgan Ave., reports said.

When officers arrived, Wallace alleged Keeton had jumped out of his vehicle after the accident and attempted to strike him with a frog.

Meanwhile, a 16-year-old girl started screaming at one of the drivers involved and refused to comply with officers' requests to be quiet. She was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. At police headquarters, she declined to make a phone call and was lodged.

Keeton was arrested and booked for assault. He was released after posting a $102 cash bond. Wallace was charged with reckless driving and was given a court appearance date.

Campers head outdoors for variety of reasons

by Mike Wickens
Trail of Tears State Forest

As I gaze out my office window this morning I see the forest covered hills around about me, blue skies overhead, and many species of birds flitting through the trees. I can hear the wind in the trees and the birds' song.

For many, life does not offer these privileges. As they look out their windows, they see a different world. They see the neighbor's house or apartment and concrete sidewalks and streets. Their sky is stained with smog, glazing the eyes and aggravating the nose. There may be a bird or two outside the window which helps them remember that there is a world of nature... somewhere. Their ears hear the zoom of planes overhead, the hum of cars tires on pavement and the bang of the neighbor's door as he goes to work. For many, this is life!

Some seek light in this tunnel of existence. For some, there is a time to be alone in nature and enjoy the beautiful sights, sounds and smells of the world. They are the campers! Through the time spent in camping in that particular favorite state park, conservation area or state forest, they can enjoy, if only for a few weekends a year, the quietness of nature.

Some are tent campers, and they are a select group of individuals. Tent campers are as different as any group. They come in all sizes and shapes, they may be young or old, they may have great wealth or barely get by. Some are from the inner city, others from the suburbs, and some from rural environments.

Their reasons for tent camping are just as different. Some are seeking to get away from it all, others seek to enjoy nature. Some bring rods and reels with them, others cameras, and still others a car load of kids and the dog. Some want to be alone to enjoy this experience, some bring a friend, others the whole family, and still others come in groups as gregarious as the Canada geese. Tent campers, I believe, can be divided into five types.

Let us begin with the family camping unit. This group comes complete with energized children, the pet which couldn't be left behind, trying to recreate the experience that his forefathers once had as they conquered this land. Or they may be seeking to taste what it is like to bed down in the forest.

Our fourth group of campers are youth groups and a parent or two to maintain order. This group seeks to get away from the humdrum of everyday life, and it's problems. They wish to enjoy some time together in the great outdoors. There is a certain sense of fellowship that can only be derived from a family spending a weekend together within the confines of a tent. It is especially exciting when it rains most of the weekend, and they experience close encounters of a different kind. Families can establish life-long memories when they enjoy the beauty of nature together, hiking trails, watching wildlife, playing games, fishing or just being together away from it all.

Our second type of camper is the romantic. These campers always come in pairs. Their goal is to be alone together watching sunrises and sunsets; to admire the beauty each other reflects in the cathedral of nature. They spend a lot of time holding hands, walking through the woods, running up and down hills, watching the flow of an evening fire, and sharing innermost thoughts.

Our third group of tent campers include specialty groups: hunters, fishermen, photographers or those who love to spend time in nature. They tent camp to be closer to the resource they love. Some do this for the sake of economics, and pride themselves on how little it costs them to recreate in the great outdoors. Others look at the time in the tent as part of the total experience. This tent camper may be consisting of boy scouts, girl scouts, church groups and other youth organizations. Here we have youth learning to survive in the wilderness. We see these young people struggling to put up the tent for the first time. We see big eyes and grins as they admire a bird, flower, or tree that they have never seen before. We see the look of accomplishment after they have built their first fire alone, cooked an egg on a stick, or spent the night in a tent in below zero weather to earn the polar bear award. Youth tent campers are the future of the camping world.

Our fifth group of campers will be called the "guys." Here we have a bunch of overgrown boy scouts who never lost that boyhood urge to get together with their buddies in the woods for the weekend. You see them hurrying to load their car on a Friday night with food, cooking utensils, cards and case after case of beer. And don't forget the tent. Camping is not the goal, but the means to enjoy this experience. The wife somehow accepts the husband's going camping with the guys and hopes that afterward he won't be too tired to mow the lawn.

Tent campers are an interesting collection of people with one thing in common—their tent! With spring in the air and another tent camping season just around the corner, I wish you an enjoyable and safe camping season. Enjoy the world of nature and leave it as you found it!

Illusionist to visit City Temple

Don McGarvey, an ordained minister and performing magician, will present the "reality of God's love through the make-believe world of illusion" at City Temple Assembly of God, 4751 Maryville Road, for three nights next week.

All young people are invited to attend the program, scheduled Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 7 p.m. until 8:15 p.m. at the church.

Rev. McGarvey illustrates his messages with sleight of hand, illusions and through the non-verbal communications of a bald headed puppet named "Buzz," in a manner which appeals to youngsters of all ages.

He has traveled extensively within the United States, Canada and England performing in churches, retreats, camps, hospitals and schools. He also has appeared on television and radio.

Rev. McGarvey currently serves as minister of children and education at the First Assembly of God in Wood River.

Local man honored for aiding choking victim

When Louise Knowles began choking on a piece of meat during a lunch at the Granite City Township Building last month, Orville Martin responded with methods he had seen, but never before performed.

After unsuccessfully trying the Heimlich maneuver, Martin held the choking woman upside down and shook her, dislodging the meat from her throat. "I just saw it done and I remembered that my mother used to turn babies upside down," he said.

Martin, of 2749 Grand Ave., was honored Tuesday with a certificate of appreciation from the American Association of Retired Persons. The presentation was a surprise to him. AARP Vice President Juanita Crowley said that Martin was the only person to go to Mrs. Knowles' aid.

Martin says he's not sure why he was the only one to take action. "I didn't bother until I saw her fold up and go to the floor. She was blue. That's what bothered me so much. 'I wasn't an experienced helper, but everybody was sitting at the table just watching her. You just do it. You don't think,' he said. Crowley said Mrs. Knowles, of 2303 State St., required no medical attention following the incident.

Judge Williams dismisses firemen's pension dispute

Associate Judge Clayton Williams in East Alton dismissed a lawsuit last week that involved the underfunding of the city firemen's pension funds.

The case stems from council action on the 1982-83 budget, when both the police and fire pension funds were cut by $100,000. The state actuaries had said at that time that the firemen's pension should be funded at approximately $500,000 a year.

According to City Attorney John Papa, the actuaries are set up as a guideline. The Illinois State Statutes do, however, require that municipalities put some money into these funds.

The court ruling dismissed the case on the grounds that the power to levy for the pension fund is a discretionary act of the city council and that the court does not have the legal authority to review the council's discretion in funding.

The pension fund covers retirement benefits for workers.

The firefighters' attorney, William Barnes, could not be reached for comment.

BICYCLE HITS VAN; YOUNG MAN IS HURT

Sixteen-year-old Donald C. Richardson, 2241 Miracle Ave., sustained minor injuries when his bicycle ran into the side of the van of Jerry Barnes, 2321 Cardinal Ave., on a sidewalk in the 2000 block of Johnson Road at 3:25 p.m. Monday. Barnes said he was entering Johnson Road from a parking lot and was stopped for traffic when the bicycle hit the side of the van. Richardson had visible injuries, but did not seek immediate medical treatment, according to official reports.

WINDSHIELD SMASHED

Chester Freeman, 918 Webster St., reported Monday that the windshield on his car was smashed. Freeman told Madison police that several youths threw a brick and bottle at his car and then fled.

CHARGE A MADISON MAN WITH RETAIL THEFT

Gary L. Walliser, 19, of 1929 Sixth St., Madison, was charged in a state complaint with retail theft in connection with allegedly obtaining more than $12 worth of gasoline from the Sonic Station, 1817 Madison Ave., without paying for the fuel.

Police arrested Walliser late last week outside a residence in the 2400 block of Dewey Avenue and he allegedly was identified as the driver of a vehicle that had left the station without paying.

Walliser was released after posting a $102 cash bond early this week.

POSTS $304 BOND ON TICKET, WARRANTS

Dannie D. Peters, 25, of 2511 E. 25th St., was released at 12:15 a.m. Wednesday after posting a $304 cash bond. He was taken into custody earlier that night when his vehicle was stopped at Kate and Edwards streets and he was charged with driving while his license was revoked.

Peters also was served with two active warrants, alleging driving while his license was revoked and a stop sign violation.

VIDEO RECORDER TAKEN

Alex Roseman of 1238 Robin St., Venice, told Venice police Sunday that someone took a video recorder from his residence. There was no sign of forced entry.

Faith Ave. blocked to repair sewers

Acting City Engineer Ed Schulze has announced that Faith Avenue, from the Buxton to Wayne avenues, will be barricaded starting today, to begin work on sewer breaks two and four.

Schulze said that the street will be completely barricaded, including the alleys. He said the barricades will remain intact until the work on the sewers is completed. He estimates the job will take three to four weeks.

Church celebrates 20th anniversary

Officials at Word of Life Tabernacle have announced the 20th anniversary of the church. The church was founded on June 7, 1964, by its present pastor, the Rev. Henry Crippen.

Over the past 20 years, the congregation has grown from two families to approximately 350 members and presently holds services at 12th Street and Meridian Avenue.

Approximately 200 church members attended a surprise anniversary dinner June 8 in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Crippen's 20th anniversary at Word of Life Tabernacle.

The church also hosted its annual church picnic at Wilson Park June 2. Attending members played games, and local merchants donated items for prizes.

Word of Life Tabernacle has regular services Sundays at 10 and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The mid-week service is on Thursdays at 7 p.m.

CASH BOX IS LOOTED

A total of $307 was stolen from a cash box in the office at E.A. Friedman's Furniture and Hardware store, 421 Madison Ave., Madison. It was reported at 3:25 p.m. Friday.

the school board offices on April 4, 1984, when the principle executive officer of Granite City Steel and all taxing bodies were represented, except the city and the township. He contended these officials failed to appear at the meeting "because they were in a local (liquor) establishment."

After Moad's statement, Whitmer made more comments. "Here again are some more accusations. 'Anybody can do it, anybody can start rumors. Anybody can stir up stuff,' he said. 'But when it comes to backing it up, that's when you become a man - when you can back up what you are saying.'"

ALDERMAN CARL KITTLE commented that he had done some checking into Moad's suggestion and said this type of chemical abuse program could cost the city $5,000 per month, per individual. "And it's going to kind of hamper negotiations if we can throw away $5,000 a month on a supposed illness or imaginary problem or whatever it may be. Also, the local hospital has an alcohol and drug program in effect right now that anyone can participate in."

Alderman Lloyd Bailey said he feels the reason Moad made the public statements was related to the discussion that occurred surrounding the sewer breaks at the last meeting. Mayor Schuler called Moad a liar, even though Moad's predictions on the cost of drawing up technical specifications for the sewer repairs was close to the actual cost.

The council approved $6,000 for the specifications, Bailey noted. "Even though it didn't cost over $7,000 (as Moad had suggested) for these things to be drawn up, it wasn't a lie. It was the truth. But the mayor called him a liar."

"And then on down the line, when Jake (Varadian) came up, the mayor jumped on him. Then Sharon (Perjak) said something - the mayor turned around and made a mockery of it. I don't know how the rest feel about it, but I don't think it's really fair to haul up and call a guy a liar when it was the truth, like he said."

ALDERMAN EVERETT MORLEN said he feels the council should "quit playing politics" on the council floor and "do something for the public." Morlen's comments were greeted by applause from the residents in the audience.

"I told you a good long while ago that all that's been going on up here is playing politics. ...I'm getting good and tired of it here and I told you a while back, but you wouldn't listen to me. It makes me feel kind of hot around the collar to think people come up here and try to use the council for politics."

Moad's motion for a treatment program was seconded by Alderman Bailey. After the discussion of the possible cost and of a pending lawsuit from an employee seeking pay for the time he spent in an alcohol rehabilitation program, the motion failed, with even Bailey voting against it.

MADISON COUPLE

CHARGED WITH DAMAGE

Two Madison residents were released on their own recognizance Wednesday after appearing before Associate Judge George Moran Jr. on charges of criminal damage to property, criminal trespass to property and theft under $300.

Charged were Terry Spivey, 21, and Monica Hollenback, 23, both of 1506 1/2 Second St. The two were charged after an investigation into property damage at an apartment at 1511 Second St. The apartment is owned by Joseph Marsala of 205 Madison Ave.

Marsala reported to Madison police Tuesday that a coffee table in the apartment had been destroyed, eggs had been thrown on the walls, floors and ceiling and that a light fixture was missing.

Reports state that Spivey and Hollenback had recently vacated the damaged apartment.

For One Year SIUE drops tennis program

EDWARDSVILLE — James R. Buck, director of the Office of Development and Public Affairs at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, announced Tuesday that the university would defer its men's tennis program for a period of one year, allowing time to rebuild the program.

The Cougars, winners of the last seven consecutive NCAA-II championships, were expected to return four players to the 1984-85 squad, Young Min Kwon, Jon Sorbo, Dave Delson and Peter Moore.

"After receiving Kent DeMars' resignation less than two weeks ago, I have met with three of the four returning players, with each indicating his desire to transfer to another university," explained Buck. "The University will drop the program for a year which will allow each player to attend another school without sitting out a year. This would also allow a new coach to spend a year recruiting high-caliber players in order to maintain a competitive Division II program at the national level."

Earlier this month, it was announced that DeMars had accepted a position as the head coach of the men's tennis team at the University of South Carolina. He had been the head coach at SIUE since 1974.

Suspect in stabbing is released

A 24-year-old Granite City man was released from custody at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday without being charged at this time in connection with the stabbing of Kevin Julius, 1309 Carr St., Monday night.

Police were told there was a woman screaming at Julius' home at 10:30 p.m. Monday and investigated to find Betty Singleton screaming that Julius had just been stabbed with a knife. She said the other man present had punched her face, knocked her down and stabbed Julius. Julius was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the other man was taken into custody, but was released Tuesday evening. The investigation is continuing.

CRIMINAL DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IS ALLEGED

Danny L. Hardesty, 20, of Wood River was taken into custody by Granite City Steel security officers early this week, at the request of Granite City police, when he walked into the steel plant.

Hardesty was held for local officers, who charged him with criminal damage to property stemming from an incident allegedly occurring sometime earlier that night at the home of his former wife, Lisa Hardesty, 2223 Edison Ave. Mrs. Hardesty alleged her ex-husband came to the house and caused problems. An argument ensued and a friend who was at the dwelling was forced to lock himself in a bathroom.

Hardesty then kicked two holes in the door before leaving the house, she alleged. After his arrest, Hardesty declined medical attention, reports said.

Carl A. Shaver, 26, of 2411 Ohio Ave. was charged with harassment by telephone and disorderly conduct after police chased him on foot from 13th Street and Edwardsville Road to the 2000 block of 13th Street at 10:05 p.m. Monday.

Linda Shaver, 1316 Meridian Ave., who is legally separated from Shaver, told police at 9:30 p.m. that she received a telephone call from Shaver and he allegedly called her names and threatened the lives of her children and herself.

At 10:05 p.m. Monday, Shaver allegedly came to her home, but left on foot. Police followed the path he took and alleged he came into sight and ran from officers, who chased him. Madison Patrolman Gary Marsala helped capture Shaver in the 2000 block of 13th Street.

ASSAULT CHARGES IN PARKING LOT INCIDENT

John P. Moore, 19, of 14 Holiday Mobile Home Park, was booked on two charges of assault and a disorderly conduct charge following an incident in the parking lot at Kozak's Market, 2600 Nameoki Road at 11:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Donald Garris of Granite City alleged Moore got out of a vehicle and began yelling at him, saying he was going to beat him up. John Dukes of Pontoon Beach reportedly tried to help Garris and was allegedly attacked by Moore.

Moore continued to make threats after being placed in a squad car and refused to be quiet when a large group of people began gathering nearby, reports alleged.

TWO ARE BOOKED AFTER A SCUFFLE IN YARD

Officers, directed by neighbors to the scene of a fight at 8 p.m. Tuesday, separated two men who allegedly were scuffling in a yard in the 2200 block of Alexander Street.

Billy W. Mason, 35, of 4220 Highway 162, and Charles H. Freiner Jr., 28, of 2221 Alexander St., were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

What Ever Happened To Joe?

Joe

Did He Die? Move Away? Is He Mad?

You know Joe. He's the guy that used to come in your business quite often and he bought quite a few things. But Joe hasn't been around for awhile. Makes you wonder why, doesn't it?

Joe may be the same old Joe he ever was. Happy, healthy and a good customer. But he may now be someone else's customer. No, you say, Joe always got good service here and he was a satisfied customer.

Maybe. But Joe might have been reading our newspaper and read one of your competitor's ads and decided to give someone else a try. He may be getting good service and is a satisfied customer, but it may now be down the street.

What can you do? Just write Joe off? No, don't give up so easily. Advertise to get Joe back. And while you're at it, you'll probably be helping keep Jane and John, Dick and Sally and all of your other customers coming in the door regularly.

Video state lottery game themes chosen

The Illinois State Lottery Control Board approved four game themes Monday for a statewide test of a video lottery, scheduled to begin in early August.

Each of the video game machines, called Player-Active Lottery Machines (PALMS), will permit players to select one of the four games for $1.

Players can win prizes of a free game, $2, $5, $20, $1,000 and $5,000.

Lottery Superintendent Michael J. Jones emphasized that while the four video lottery games give players the perception that skill has a relationship to winning prizes, prizes are awarded totally at random.

The four themes are: "Lady and the Tiger," in which players find themselves in various rooms of a medieval castle facing several doors. If a player "opens" a door with a prize amount behind it, the player wins that amount. If the player opens a door with a tiger behind it, the player loses.

In "Space Matracers," in which the player is in the cockpit of a spaceship traveling through space, to win a prize the player must "hit" various hostile spaceships.

"Chicago" recreates the Chicago fire, with a map of Chicago's north side showing well-known buildings and other points of interest. In this game, the city is on fire and "Mrs. O'Leary" appears dragging a fire hose through the streets. Goal is to put out as many fires as possible to win prizes.

"Ballyhoo" a video game version of America's first pinball machine, Ballyhoo, introduced in 1931.

During the six-month test of the PALMS, game themes and prize structures may be changed to test player reactions.

Ginger Booker to star in 'Kids World'

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Ginger Beth Booker of Madison will gain further national attention this fall with the start of a new season in the "KidsWorld" series on the CBS television network.

The talented Madison teenager, a student at the Saint Louis Conservatory and Schools for the Arts Midtown, known by the acronym CASA, will serve as the national reporter on the young people's television show.

Segments for the series are being filmed on location in several major metropolitan areas this summer.

Ginger's role will be to tie the show's various sequences together by introducing such episodes as a performance of the "Ballet Des Jeunes" from Philadelphia, harness racing featuring a boy in Maryland and a wheelchair tennis match.

Additional segments are being taped in Los Angeles, New York and other major cities, Ginger explained.

Chris Stock and Judy Verda, the camera crew filming "KidsWorld" for the Behrens Company, Inc., headquartered in Miami, Fla., came to CASA to tape the clips involving Ginger and some other CASA students.

"It was fun," Ginger commented about her latest experience. "I gave reports on events happening all over the country with kids from other areas."

She is looking forward to seeing it on Channel 4 next fall, Ginger added. CASA is the only institution in the nation that combines the professional training of a degree-granting music college—the St. Louis Conservatory of Music—with a network of Schools for the Arts, where all may study the arts in an exciting, creative atmosphere.

CASA, soon to celebrate its 10th anniversary, has five locations. Each facility constitutes a private, not-for-profit arts school and CASA Midtown is one of the five schools.

Located in the St. Louis inner city, just a few blocks from Powell Hall and the Fox Theater, in a building of Spanish architecture, CASA Midtown houses classrooms, rehearsal studios, a modern dance studio, a fully-equipped ceramics workshop and room for a theater in the round.

CASA Midtown offers quality instruction for children and adults in the performing and visual arts. The curriculum includes music—including private lessons, musicianship and theory classes and a gospel workshop; dance—including modern, jazz and African; theater, drawing, ceramics, painting, sculpture and papermaking.

Students come to Midtown as a supplement to school or work. They study with performing and practicing professionals from the St. Louis area.

About 330 students, including children and adults from both suburban and inner city areas, presently are enrolled at CASA Midtown.

Courses are offered year-around and students pay tuition on a semester basis. Classes meet once a week and are held in the afternoon and evening on weekdays and Saturdays.

Financial aid is available to attend the school, making study possible for people who could not otherwise be there.

Bonnie Fisher, director of CASA Midtown, says the aim of the school is "to open up the arts."

Midtown strives to make it affordable for as many people as possible to study whatever arts discipline they are interested in, she explained.

Mrs. Fisher also noted the energy level of students and faculty is very high because everyone who comes to CASA Midtown wants to be there.

As the show's correspondent, Ginger is introduced at the onset as a voice and piano student at CASA Midtown, where she has been studying nearly two years.

She is the only pupil attending the school on a full scholarship—the Michael Holmes and Rhea Holmes Scholarship for voice and piano instruction—which she was awarded last December.

The Madison girl has been part of the CASA Midtown program nearly two years and takes private voice and piano lessons every Saturday.

The daughter of Mrs. Bobbie Booker, 1635 Market St., Madison, who is a teacher's aide at Harris School, Ginger will begin her sophomore year this fall at Marquette High School in Alton. She observed her 15th birthday in May.

She attended Harris until entering St. Mary-St. Mark Parochial School in Madison in the third grade and she remained a pupil there until starting high school.

Last July, Ginger attained national and international recognition when she won the title of Miss Hemisphere Teen Talent queen at the Philadelphia Academy of Theatrical Arts.

In winning the title over 46 international contestants in her age division—11 through 15 years—Ginger received a new 1984 automobile, a 17 jewel diamond wristwatch and a full tuition-paid scholarship to the Philadelphia Academy of Theatrical Arts.

Additionally, she was presented a Miss Hemisphere crown, a diamond award necklace and banner and a six-foot-tall marble trophy.

The trip to Philadelphia, as Illinois' representative in the pageant, was sponsored by the Madison Rotary Club, which has acted as Ginger's official sponsor on previous occasions.

Although she accepted delivery of a 1984 Chevy Chevette from a local dealer in January, as part of the pageant's rewards, the talented girl has not sought the option of claiming her scholarship at the Philadelphia Academy of Theatrical Arts.

"I believe Ginger is still a little young to be that far away from home," her mother explained.

Mrs. Booker is naturally protective and is more concerned about her daughter's overall well-being and development than any immediate benefits from Ginger's talents.

In 1982, the Madison girl won the prestigious Fontbonne College Instrumental Music award for her performance in a regional contest.

Despite her youth, Ginger is widely known in the St. Louis metropolitan area and has performed before various organizations in the local communities.

Ginger is not yet sure if she would like to pursue a career in music, but she definitely plans to continue singing. She is fond of all types of music, but finds that singing is the most enjoyable.

She has been told that her voice is an inspiration to others and that makes her feel very good because she likes to make people happy.

The future looks bright for Ginger, as a national television audience of young people will discover this fall.

Listening devices, costly legal bills add to county controversy

By JUDY TAPLAN

Use of wire taps in a grand jury investigation of assessment practices in Madison County was revealed by an assistant state's attorney.

Marshall "Zeke" Smith, legal counsel for the Madison County Board, referred to the wire taps during a county board finance committee meeting.

Smith, in statements criticizing the Madison County judiciary for costs the county faces for a series of special prosecutors and attorneys, said two judges refused to issue court orders for the wire taps. He said Bond County Judge John DeLaurenti later approved the wire taps.

Smith said the Madison County judiciary has a token woman and a token black, but not even one Republican.

All Madison County judges are Democrats. So is DeLaurenti. Madison and Bond counties make up the Third Judicial Circuit.

The assessments probe was begun by State's Attorney Don Weber, the lone Republican holding countywide elective office.

Smith later said he was probably in trouble for making some of his statements to the finance committee, "but we need to teach these judges a little responsibility."

He said he believes the bills for various special prosecutors and attorneys should be taken out of the judiciary's budget, even if it means having to forego a courtroom or some new carpeting for the judges.

In letters to the finance committee and the judiciary, Smith had said the county should stop making taxpayers foot the bill for an investigation of Weber.

He also asked that a bill from special prosecutor Paul Verticchio be shared between the budgets of the state's attorney's office and the judiciary.

Finance committee members held up approval of a bill from another special prosecutor, Keith Jensen, and also a $28,756 bill from Weber's defense attorneys, Donald Groshong and Ed Moorman.

Jensen temporarily served as a special prosecutor to head the probe of assessment practices.

Groshong and Moorman represented Weber during a special grand jury's investigation of charges made against the state's attorney by a Belleville attorney, Amiel Cusato.

No indictments were returned on those allegations, although the grand jury indicted Weber for allegedly trying to manipulate the grand jury investigating assessments.

The charges against Weber were thrown out by a Jersey County circuit judge, but that decision is being appealed.

Verticchio, the special prosecutor who led the special grand jury investigating Weber, recently turned in a bill for more than $12,000.

Jensen's bill was $4,462.

Fred Dalton, a member of the finance committee, said the committee will have to make a recommendation sooner or later on whether to approve the bill for Weber's legal counsel. There is a court order requiring that the Jensen bill be paid.

Dalton said his opinion is that the county is probably responsible for paying Weber's legal fees.

Smith told a reporter that the Jensen bill "offends me." Jensen was an assistant state's attorney under Weber until late March, when Jensen made allegations that Weber was attempting to manipulate the grand jury for political purposes.

An affidavit by Jensen to this effect was the basis for the misconduct charges against Weber.

Smith, referring to the bill, said Jensen was getting $15 an hour in Weber's office before he quit, but charged $75 an hour, with no overhead, as special prosecutor.

Smith said he believes there will be "a big flap" over paying for Weber's defense.

The tangle of outside judges and special prosecutors appears to be continuing. Madison County Chief Judge A.A. Matoesian last week requested an outside judge to hear a motion by Weber to end the tenure of Verticchio as special prosecutor.

The county does not have to pay for the service of the outside judges.

Charge Madison man in burglary

Gerald Eugene Bulva, 19, of 1230 Iowa St., Madison, was charged with burglary and three counts of felony theft in informational documents issued last week to the Granite City Police Department by the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Bulva was turned over to a Granite City detective at 5 p.m. Thursday at St. Clair County Jail in Belleville, where he and a Madison youth, 16, were transferred by Caseyville police earlier the same day.

Bulva and the youth were taken into custody by a Caseyville officer who stopped a motorcycle on which the pair allegedly was riding. The motorcycle was reported stolen from a carport at the home of Ronald Shelton, 2331 Zippel Ave.

One count of theft over $300 was filed in connection with the motorcycle theft, and petitions were filed in juvenile court on the youth.

The burglary information and the two other felony theft counts stemmed from a break-in at RAM Leasing, 1200 Edwardsville Road, reported May 27.

At the business place, screws were removed from hasps locking the front door to the office and keys were taken to three vehicles, it was alleged.

A 1976 Chrysler, which was missing from the sales lot, was recovered June 1 by Illinois State Police.

A 1977 Plymouth, also driven from the lot, was found by Madison police at Farish Street and McCasland Avenue in Madison. The third vehicle, for which keys were missing, had not been tampered with, reports said.

Petitions also were filed against the juvenile in the burglary case.

Bulva appeared in the Granite City court at 4:35 p.m. Friday. Bond was set at $5,000 cash and a mitimus was issued. He was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville the same day.

Three persons were charged following an incident during the weekend in the parking lot at Charlie's Restaurant, 3120 N. Main St., where a security guard alleged being punched in the face.

Police were told the episode started when Marcel P. Tarris, 42, of Highland, was asked to leave by a security employee. The employee was then struck in the face by Tarris while he was in the parking area, it was alleged. Tarris was charged with battery.

After police were called, two other persons, Linda L. Tarris, 25, of 1234 Slough Road, and William J. Politte, 42, of Box 1324, Granite City, also were taken into custody and both were charged with obstructing a police officer.

Police officers later were released upon posting their driver's license.

Tavern incident leads to 3 arrests

Larry E. McKenzie, 34, of East Alton, was booked on state charges of resisting arrest and disorderly conduct following a weekend incident at El Gato Tavern, 1800 Delmar Ave., where the barman reportedly asked McKenzie and two companions to leave when they allegedly became loud.

After an officer arrived at the tavern, McKenzie again declined to go and started yelling. He allegedly became aggressive and a tussle ensued, resulting in the arrest.

McKenzie's belligerent behavior continued at police headquarters where threats were made against officers, it was alleged. He was released 16 hours later after posting a $152 cash bond.

Meanwhile, the two men who had been with McKenzie at El Gato and had voluntarily left the tavern earlier, reportedly returned and were arrested.

Tommy C. Stone, 30, of 2825 Denver St., and Timothy C. Creek, 24, of 2023 W. 14th St., both were booked on state charges of criminal trespass to land.

Coolidge sewer to be improved

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Improvement of a broken Coolidge Junior High School sanitary sewer was authorized Tuesday night by the Granite City Board of Education.

The project is to be completed this summer. Installation bids will be sought based on the recommendations of Ronald Landman, director of buildings and grounds, and Bill Thompson of Thompson Associates.

Using side photos, Thompson analyzed the sewer problem in detail during a special board meeting which also dealt with school finances.

Four possible approaches were studied. The one chosen recognizes a need to raise gravity sewers from the Coolidge cafeteria kitchen area and install a force main adjacent to the Coolidge gym. The present sewer line's close proximity to the building foundation limits the depth to which the sandy soil can be excavated.

A new lift station with duplex 150 gallons per minute duty-cycled pumps will be installed at the boys' locker room sewer, Landman said.

A four-inch plastic force main will be linked to a discharge manhole that is the receptor of the gravity sewer. The line will be placed at a much higher elevation than the present draining from the kitchen area.

The new elevation will require raising horizontal drainage piping of the kitchen, girls' locker room and restroom areas and suspending it from the underside of the first-floor structure, which has a 62-inch-deep crawl space.

This plan will replace internal drainage pipes that were connected in 1964, extending the life of the system, Thompson pointed out.

Overall cost is projected at $50,000 to $60,000, plus the added operating expenses of having two rather than one Coolidge lift station. Although the interior plumbing will be replaced, there will be only minor exterior excavation.

In addition to the breaking of the sewer line in May, the system has experienced clogging and the campus has had instances of the ground surface sinking.

After construction of the school three decades ago, the history of its sewer includes work in 1975 to install a lift station, a discharge manhole and a gravity line leading to Fehling Road.

Thompson was praised for the thoroughness of his evaluation and for devising a way in which maintenance work can be simplified.

He described the solution selected as the most cost-effective, taking into account cost, function and construction complexity.

To prepare specifications, his firm will be paid 7½ percent of the cost of the project.

Minimum repair would have cost $35,000 to $40,000 but would not have avoided future breaks and problems, Thompson said.

Installation of two new lift stations for a total of three would have cost $65,000 to $75,000. This would have reduced the trenching task but would have increased the school's energy usage and future maintenance and operating costs.

The most expensive approach, totaling $150,000 or more, would have avoided a new lift station but it involved mud sills and sheet piling or shoring.

These construction safety steps—to ward off fine-grained sand and water penetration—would be followed due to the sewer line's location near the school and nine to 11 feet below ground. This type of work also might have endangered a wall of the building, the board noted.

Father-son are charged in beating

John L. Pellazari, 40, and Darrell Pellazari, 22, a father and son who reside at 707 Twenty-seventh Place, were charged with aggravated battery in felony informational documents issued by the Madison County State's Attorney's Office Monday.

The two allegedly beat James Roe of Granite City in Edwardsville, a pool cue inside the Tip Top Tavern, 18th and State streets, last Thursday evening. Roe underwent surgery for his injuries, authorities said.

Friday, the state's attorney's office declined to approve charges until additional information was gathered and the men were released. The charges were authorized Monday.

The Pellazaris were surrendered by their attorney in Edwardsville Tuesday and were released on $1,000 cash each.

Arrested on burglary charge

Carl B. Graham, 24, of 2854 E. 24th St., was arrested at his home at 7:09 p.m. Monday on a warrant alleging burglary.

He is charged with breaking into the Triangle Auto Sales office at 1401 Niedringhaus Ave., stealing a set of auto keys and driving away with an auto from the lot. The stolen car later was recovered.

Evidence was sent to the FBI laboratory and Graham was arrested when reports were received from the laboratory.

Alabama fugitive is arrested here

An alleged fugitive from justice from Mobile, Ala., was arrested by Granite City police shortly last week at 14th Street and Madison Avenue and was held in jail for Alabama authorities.

Police had been alerted that Johnny Ray Nichols, 26, may be in the company of a young woman living in Granite City. They were alerted a man had left the woman's house and was walking toward Venice. Nichols was seen walking and was arrested without incident.

Alabama authorities say he is charged with forged devices and there is no bail set. He also is on parole, they said.

Placed on probation for taking indecent liberties

For indecent liberties with a child, James Lewis, 1926 Fifth St., East Madison, is to pay $95 court costs and serve on probation for four years. Circuit Judge J. J. O'Neil ruled in May after receiving a guilty plea April 9. The original allegation Feb. 2, solicitation of a child, was amended.

Two other counts of indecent liberties with a child, reduced from solicitation of a child, were dismissed on the recommendation of the state's attorney.

Speaker Madigan has won legislature's respect

By Ken Watson
SPRINGFIELD — "In this building they think he's God!"

Speaking was a respected lobbyist and he was talking about Illinois House Speaker Mike Madigan. The comment captured a fascinating development: The transformation of Chicagoan Madigan from gut-fighter to probably the most popular member of the legislature.

Republicans as much or even more than Democrats sing his praises. At the convening of the House recently, GOP Conference Chairman Dwight Friedrich of Centralia apologized to Madigan for the tardiness of some Republican members in failing to make the 9 a.m. starting time. In doing so the often sharp-tongued Friedrich profusely praised Madigan for the efficient manner in which he has directed the operation of the House.

Sessions have been starting on time and following almost to the letter the weekly schedule provided in advance by Madigan to appreciate House members. The speaker has kept the members on the ball like a Marine drill sergeant, as a result, the House is in about as good shape calendar-wise as it has ever been going into the final month of the regular session.

Not only has Madigan been a good disciplinarian, but he has also maintained a record for fairness, which likewise has drawn kudos from the Republicans. Assistant Minority Leader Sam Vinson of Clinton, who tries the patience of some members for what they consider parliamentary nit-picking, frequently commends Madigan for the considerate treatment he receives from the podium.

Madigan has a good relationship with Republican House Leader Lee Daniels of Elmhurst. It is a far cry from the days when Madigan as Democratic floor leader duled daily with then Speaker George Ryan, now lieutenant governor. The style of the man who came up through the ranks of Chicago ward politics has indeed changed and mellowed since he became House speaker with the convening of the 83rd General Assembly a year ago last January.

His image may not have completely changed from that of a Jimmy Cagney to a Ray Milland type, but he is certainly no longer the legislature's Peck's Bad Boy. House employees, whatever their party affiliation, clearly have a high regard for him and it is rare to hear anyone speak other than favorably of "Mike."

What mild criticism there is usually comes from lobbyists. Most complain that he is rarely available, does most of the talking when he is tracked down and dismisses most requests with an icy indifference.

"You can ask him something and he'll look right through you with those eyes and walk away," says one.

The Madigan changes this session have not been all of style. He has made some significant switches on important legislative issues. He has, for instance, dropped his previous all-out opposition to merit selection of judges and now supports a plan to create a special commission to fill court vacancies.

On another especially sensitive matter, Madigan has endorsed a GOP-sponsored plan for abolishing almost all of the 53 legislative commissions. A year ago he helped kill a similar proposal.

He has opposed bills for a legislative pay raise and strangely, for a Chicagoan, took a dim view of legislation for long-range financing of the 1992 Chicago World's Fair. The failure of a Chicagoan to enthusiastically support the fair project has especially nettled Chicago newspapers.

Capitol cynics scoff that Madigan is beginning to seize on popular issues and is fashioning a "nice guy" image to further his political ambitions. It is no secret that he would like to be the next Democratic candidate for governor. But

CHILD ABUSE DETECTION Pilot program to train the trainers

By Joan Muraro
SPRINGFIELD — Faced with 70,000 reports of suspected child abuse annually, the state Department of Children and Family Services is launching a $10,000-a-month pilot program to "train the trainers" in expanding detection and reporting of suspected abuse in 50 downstate counties.

To implement the pilot project the department has entered into an agreement with the Child Injury Prevention Study Group headed by Dr. Howard Levy, chairman of the pediatrics department of Chicago's Mount Sinai Hospital.

The current agreement pays the group $10,000 a month through June, and a new contract is currently being negotiated, department officials said.

Details of the plan were announced by Levy and DCF's Director Gordon Johnson.

Emphasis will be on sharpening the skills of physicians to identify physical signs of abuse, recognize families under stress where abuse is likely to occur, and to assess the various risks to the child victim, the pair said in an interview.

Johnson said the program, if successful, will ultimately be expanded to all 162 counties in the state. To spur its success, he said, the department is asking $2.9 million to hire 260 new case workers in its budget for the coming year.

Once implemented, the cost of the additional staff to achieve a caseload of about 40-1 is expected to be about $6 million annually, Johnson said.

"Often skilled doctors are the only ones who can tell if child abuse has occurred," Johnson said. "Doctors have played a pivotal role since the first Illinois abuse reporting law was enacted," but added that physicians in private practice now account for less than 1 percent of all reports received by the department.

When the state's child abuse laws were first enacted in 1965, only about 200 cases were reported yearly, nearly all of them from the medical community. Now, he said, almost 70,000 cases are expected before the end of the current year, and the medical community exclusive of private practice physicians accounts for about 14.9 percent of them.

The remainder, he said, come from teachers, child care professionals, neighbors, relatives or others who contact the department's "hotline."

Both Johnson and Levy predicted reporting by private physicians will increase once a readily accessible system of medical consultation is available.

Many doctors just entering practice lack training in recognizing signs of abuse, Levy said, so the program aims at training them. He cited spiral fractures, usually associated with skiing accidents or injuries suffered in falls by toddlers just learning to walk, which should catch the attending physician's attention when found in a child too young to be walking yet. In such cases, he said, the injuries are almost always the result of actions by someone else.

Sentenced to 12 years for child beating

Daniel J. McCullough, 18, of 2007 Sixth St., Madison, has been sentenced to serve 12 years in prison for beating his 2-year-old stepson. The beating, which occurred Feb. 25, resulted from the neck down.

McCullough was sentenced by Madison County Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill in Edwardsville. Judge O'Neill invoked the state law that allows as much as doubling of the normal maximum sentence for crimes that involve brutality or heinous behavior. Without this doubling, McCullough's maximum sentence would have been seven years.

McCullough pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated battery to the child last month. A Madison County Sheriff's Department investigation indicated that McCullough had become angry when the child wet his pants. McCullough allegedly pushed the child while scolding him and the boy fell backwards, hitting a table. When the child refused to get up after the fall, McCullough allegedly beat the child with a belt and put him to bed.

When the child's natural mother, Pamela McCullough, 20, arrived home 30 minutes later, she went to the child and took him to a hospital. The child has been on a respirator ever since. Doctors testifying in the case have reported the boy to be in poor condition and project a short lifespan for the child.

Since the beating, two other children in the home, a 4-year-old daughter by Mrs. McCullough's first husband and a 6-month-old son by McCullough, have been placed in foster homes. A hearing is set for July 16 to decide if the children can be returned to Mrs. McCullough's custody.

A judgment Monday by Judge Jonathan Isbell found no fault with Mrs. McCullough or the natural father of the injured boy and girl.

Drawing for free child safety seat

The Illinois Farm Bureau State Women's Committee and the Country Companies are recognizing the first anniversary of Illinois' Child Passenger Protection Act by giving away a safety-approved child car seat to expectant and new parents in 83 counties.

Women's committees in 34 Illinois counties, including Madison County, are asking Farm Bureau members insured by Country Companies who are expecting babies between July 1 and Sept. 30 to register for a drawing the week of June 24.

Qualified families should register for the drawing by calling or writing their Farm Bureau office, indicating their name, address and telephone number, plus the expected delivery date of their child.

Winners of the drawing will receive a child restraint seat for their auto.

Women's committees in an additional 29 counties will simply identify the first child in the county born to a Farm Bureau family after midnight, June 30. Eligible parents will be Farm Bureau members insured by Country Companies.

In these 29 counties, the child safety seat will be presented to the winning baby and parents before the child leaves the hospital.

Beginning July 1, 1983, Illinois law required children under 4 to be restrained in a safety seat and children ages 4 and 5 to be secured with seat belts.

Violators can be ticketed $25 for a first offense. Repeat offenders can be fined up to $50 for each violation. Susan Wilson, Public Information and Education Manager of the Illinois Department of Transportation, said she is glad to see the Women's Committee taking a strong stand in supporting the law. She says that Farm Bureau's activities will help promote the importance of the law and make people aware of the necessity of restraints.

"People are increasing their use of safety seats for children and seat belts for themselves," she said, "they are generally more aware of the safety issue."

The use of restraint seats and seat belts has helped reduce by more than half the number of deaths in infants less than 4 years old. Mrs. Wilson said that in 1982, there were 27 deaths and 3,485 injuries. In 1983, 12 children died as a result of auto accidents and 3,343 sustained injuries.

Patrolman resigns from Madison police

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

In a short meeting Tuesday night, Madison City Council members unanimously accepted the resignation of Patrolman Richard Ashberger, effective July 1.

Aldermen also alerted Madison police officers of a complaint regarding the alley in the 1700 block of Elizabeth Street being used as a thoroughfare. Explaining that the high rate of traffic flow in the alley presents a safety problem, one resident told council members that drivers were driving through the alley "at an excessive rate of speed," and warned that children may be hurt.

In other business, aldermen approved a request from Fire Chief Mike Macek to advertise for bids to put new roofs on the fire station and city hall buildings. Petitions from John Cuberik to operate a sporting goods store at 925 Lee Ave. and from the Mount Nelson Baptist Church for the variance of their property line to build steps were referred to the zoning board.

The payment of $33,448 in bills was approved by the council, as well as $3,597 out of the Industrial Revenue Bond issue or Madison County Community Development funds for work on the David Connelo Alpine Village Shopping Center.

GC council hires city planner

Members of the Granite City Council approved the hiring Tuesday night of a city planner to aid the city in revising the zoning ordinance. Aldermen agreed to the current ordinance have led to a series of zoning denials by the city. These denials included two Tuesday night for the rezoning of a Hill-N-Run Store at 29th Street and Madison Avenue, and rezoning for a property at 2817 E. 23rd Street.

SEVENTH WARD Alderman Mike Modrusis said he feels the circumstances surrounding these zoning decisions "warrant" the hiring of a professional planner. "The hiring of a professional planner for these areas seem to have problems," he said. "The commission has told me that they are concerned that if they grant the rezoning, the owners will sell the property and an undesirable business will move in. They are inquiring about the issuing of a special permit."

Modrusis said the council has studied putting a planner's salary in the upcoming budget, but that this situation requires the planner to be hired now. He said the planner would cost the city $1,500.

Alderman Sam Whitmer commented that the city is in a "stalemate" with new businesses because the current zoning ordinance does not allow commercial businesses to get rezoning unless the land is at least five acres. "We're going to have to loosen up something," he said. "This city is becoming dormant. We're not moving. If we don't get out of the sand, we're going to lose a lot." (An editorial to that effect appeared in Monday's Press-Record.)

MAYOR PAUL Schuler agreed with Whitmer, saying that the city has become "awfully conservative. I remember there being a filling station at the site (29th Street and Madison). We need to get some guidance."

Whitmer said that if the zoning board had voted in favor of the Hill-N-Run rezoning, he would have voted in favor of the recommendation. "They have a tough job," he said of the Plan Commission's task. Alderman Casmer Skubish said that he feels if the city has some proper guidelines, it could regulate a proper growth of business in the city. "We don't want this turnaround of business to continue because, if it does, the city will lose population and revenue," he said.

Venice parks post budget

By RACHEL NEWSOME
for the Press-Record

The Venice Park Board adopted a tentative budget and a new ordinance at last week's meeting. The budget is to be posted next week for public inspection after changes by the board are made.

Developed by Attorney Paul H. Lauber, the budget was reviewed and discussed by the board and only minor changes were made.

On recommendation from Lauber, the board adopted Ordinance 124. The ordinance confirms instructions to prepare a tentative budget by the board's president, secretary and attorney. The ordinance states that the budget is for the fiscal year, May 1, 1984, thru April 30, 1985.

A 10-year contract with Illinois Power Company was agreed to by the board. The contract concerns the use of street lights throughout the park and a monthly rate of approximately $25 per light.

Mehelic trial postponed again

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

Scheduled to begin this week, the trial of Namekoti Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic has been postponed again, this time until July 16.

Mehelic is charged with official misconduct for allegedly instructing township employees to perform work on private property during working hours.

THE TRIAL was originally scheduled for May 21, but Associate Judge Edward Ferguson postponed the trial to consider motion filed by Mehelic's attorney, James Wallis, which asked for the dismissal of the charges against Mehelic or the removal of State's Attorney Don Weber from the case.

Weber was under indictment for charges similar to Mehelic's, Wallis argued, saying that it would be "improper" for Weber to prosecute Mehelic for similar actions that Weber claimed were not illegal. Weber is charged with official misconduct for allegedly attempting to manipulate the timing of a grand jury was to return indictments. The charges against Weber have since been dismissed.

Judge Ferguson told Wallis that he will consider the appointment of a special prosecutor for Mehelic's case, but would not consider dropping the charges against Mehelic.

Bidders sought on Alton lock

A notice to bidders has been posted for the lock contract on the huge Lock and Dam 26 Replacement project. Bids are expected to be opened on Aug. 7, 1984.

The multi-million dollar lock contract is scheduled to be awarded in September and be completed in the spring of 1988. The lock is part of the $800 million lock and dam project on the Mississippi River, two miles downstream of the present Locks and Dam 26 at Alton, Illinois.

The overall project is expected to be completed in the spring of 1990.

Humane officer slated to issue citations

Members of the Granite City Council passed an ordinance Tuesday night which empowers the humane officer to write tickets on all violations relating to dogs and other animals.

The ordinance is a revision of the Granite City Municipal Code of 1978. According to the new law, the assistant humane officer, who works mainly on Saturdays and Sundays, also is given the power to issue citations.

In other council action, an ordinance was approved which will allow southbound traffic at the intersection of Madison and Niedergang avenues to make a right turn on a red stop light.

Alderman Carl Wetzel was the only objector to this traffic change.

Summer helper hired in sanitation dept.

Members of the Granite City Council Tuesday night agreed to hire a summer helper in the city's sanitation and inspection departments.

The worker will be hired for the months of July, August and September to aid the department in its weed cutting. The worker will be hired from the Teamster's union at a rate of $1,800 a month.

City Inspector Emerald Dawes said that the department has a contract with the Teamster's union, so the worker must be hired at their scale pay. The worker will drive a truck and help to supervise the other summer help in the department.

Dawes said that, despite the higher wage that will be paid, the worker's salary will pay for itself when the city considers the added revenue that will come into the city from the weed cutting fines.

1978 CHARGES DISMISSED

Two charges of controlled substance delivery against Henry Fassold, Madison, were dismissed this spring at the Madison County Courthouse by Circuit Judge Philip Barick. Events Nov. 7, 1977, had been cited in April 20, 1978, allegations. The dismissal motions were made by the state's attorney.

Sludge hazard, workers say in federal lawsuit

Sludge recycled in making coke at Granite City Steel is hazardous to employees and residents, steelworkers contend in a federal lawsuit. Actual and punitive damages are sought.

The company disputes the allegation and says the Illinois workers compensation program would be a more appropriate arena in which to litigate injury claims.

Dan Hines, a spokesman, told the Press-Record the steelmaker disagrees with assertions in the suit, which was filed by four employees and a former employee.

One worker tells of lung and eye problems and others report skin burns. The tar-like material is said to contain substances linked to a wide range of minor to serious health disorders.

The class-action suit seeks funds for those working or living near the sludge.

It says the material previously was shipped to a Central Illinois site for hazardous waste but, since mid-1982, has been recycled through coke ovens to reclaim more of its usable elements. The sludge is a byproduct of converting coal to coke; during recycling, it is added to coal.

Filed initially in the Third Circuit Court at Edwardsville, the suit has been transferred to the federal court at East St. Louis.

It is argued that the company and U.S. Occupational Safety and Health agents have been unresponsive to workers' worry about near-contact with the sludge.

Illinois Environmental Protection Agency jurisdiction ended with the change from hauling to recycling.

A disclaimer request has not yet been acted on, nor has the lawsuit's request for health testing of workers and persons residing within five miles of the local coke plant.

Jewelry theft is unfounded

What was initially thought to be a jewelry theft at Michel Jewelry, 1824 State St., at 10:05 a.m. Monday, turned out to be unfounded, authorities say.

Police were told that two men left the store and it was discovered that a tray containing eight men's diamond rings was missing.

All police cars were called into the downtown area to search for the two men and located them a short time later.

The two men, who were from Venice, were released without being charged, however, after the tray of rings was found elsewhere in the store.

Jail term and probation for attempted burglary

Johnnie R. Smith, 22, of 1508 Second St., Madison, who was charged March 27 with attempted burglary, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Philip Rarick to two-year probation, 90 days in the Madison County jail, a $300 fine, $30 special costs and $50 court costs.

Smith pleaded guilty in May at the Madison County Courthouse.

Sentenced to four years for residential burglary

Thomas Crim, 19, Collinsville, is to serve a four-year prison term. The sentence relates to three counts of Madison residential burglary filed March 6.

Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill received guilty pleas May 3. Along with the prison sentence, the judge assessed $50 court costs.

Three-year prison term for forgery in Madison

Marilyn Shanks, 43, Bethalto, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Philip Rarick to three years in an Illinois prison for a forgery occurring in Madison.

The charge was filed Feb. 3, 1983, and a plea was submitted May 16, 1983. Sentencing took place in the late spring of 1984.

Prison sentence on GC drug possession charge

Richard Hinkle, Belleville, is to serve one year in prison and pay $50 court costs for possession of a controlled drug in Granite City.

The charge was filed Feb. 8 and a guilty plea was submitted April 17 to Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill.

MITCHELL MAN CHARGED IN BATTERY COMPLAINT

Dana J. Holder, 21, of 620 Fleming Place, Mitchell, was arrested in the 2500 block of West 4th Street last week on a battery complaint signed by Holly Jones of East Alton.

She said she stopped at a house and asked to use the telephone. While she was on the phone holding her 2-year-old son, Holder entered, became upset and allegedly punched her several times, striking her head, body and her son. She suffered swelling to her head and several abrasions to her left arm.

He was released on $50 cash bond.

Coaches resignations symptom of aging district

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — According to an official in charge of athletics and physical education in Granite City's Community Unit School District Nine, the number of coaches who have resigned their positions is directly related to the district's aging coaching staff.

Commenting on a story which appeared in a St. Louis newspaper on Monday which stated as many as five coaches have resigned their high school coaching positions, Joe Fedora, director of athletics and physical education in the district, said Unit Nine is currently facing an age crisis.

ELABORATING, Fedora said because of budget restraints which closed six schools last year including one high school, the district was forced to release most of its younger, less-talented coaches in favor of its older, more-experienced, tenured coaches.

"What we're seeing now is many of those coaches who have tenure are at the point in their careers where they wish to spend more time with their families. Generally, this happens all the time, in every school district and not just Granite City."

"Consequently, the district doesn't have the younger coaches anymore to fill those vacancies, and that creates the problem we have here," Fedora said.

AFTER last year's personnel cut-backs, Fedora said the district, admittedly, became top heavy with older, more experienced and tenured teachers and coaches. Fedora went on to estimate that the average teacher's and coach's age in the district is now 45.

"You can look at most school districts," Fedora said. "Most of the coaches are younger and less tenured. Although, many districts now are also in the same position that Granite City is in — a hectic, bad time which makes hiring new coaches as difficult."

"We don't have any coach in the district who has less than 12 years tenure," Fedora said. "I understand what they're (the coaches) telling us. There comes a time when time spent coaching isn't as rewarding as time spent with their family. I can understand that. I was a baseball coach for 17 years before I did the same thing. I gave it up so I could spend time with my family."

AT LAST count, four, possibly five, coaching positions and the athletic director's position have been vacated at Granite City High School. Among them are varsity track, varsity cross country, varsity football, freshman baseball and another sport, girls' varsity soccer, will need a coach as it begins its season next spring. Another coach, softball coach, Jim Davis, has hinted of his resignation, but as of yet has not resigned.

At the top of the list of resignations is Athletic Director Roger Smith, Smith, who has been the Warriors' AD for 11 years, is one who is resigning his position to spend more time with his family.

"BASICALLY, there are a couple of reasons for my resignation," Smith began. "First, there's my family. My daughter, Jamie, will be a junior this year. She plays three sports and I really haven't had the opportunity to see her play very much."

"And my son, Christopher, he's getting to the age where he'll be doing a lot of the same things. I just don't want to miss this time with them," Smith said.

Smith's other reason for resigning his athletic directorship, plain and simply, was the work load. AS Granite City High prepares to re-enter the Southwestern Conference, Smith said his work load as AD has nearly doubled since the consolidation of North and South High Schools.

In addition to the added work load, budget restraints required that Smith teach more classes, bringing his total class load to 4½ hours a day in addition to the athletic director's duties.

"There just wasn't enough time in the day to teach the classes and do the chores affiliated with athletic director," Smith said.

"I enjoy teaching, and it was getting to the point where the enjoyment was gone due to the athletic director's duties. Something had to give," Smith said.

In April, Smith notified school officials of his resignation from the athletic director's post.

JOHN MODICA, GCHS' freshman baseball coach and formerly Granite City South head varsity coach, also expressed family reasons for resigning his position this spring.

"I've been coaching for 18 years," Modica said. "It's time to spend some of that time with my family," Modica said.

In addition to the family reason, Modica said he was also a little disappointed that he was not named the varsity assistant baseball coach during the district's reorganization after the consolidation of the high schools.

"I understand why Bob (Stegemeier) was named the varsity head coach, he had 10 years as a head coach at North. But, being a head coach at South, I was a little disappointed in being named the freshman coach," Modica said.

MODICA said he couldn't have been happier with his team this year, however. The freshmen squad, under Modica, finished the season 15-1.

"Granite City's going to have some fine ball players in the next couple of years. When you've been in it as long as I have it's tough to start all over again at the freshman level. If I'd been younger when this happened, perhaps I'd have stayed with it," Modica said.

In addition to the "family reasons" for resigning their coaching duties, some coaches expressed other reasons for leaving their positions.

ONE SUCH person is Pete Robinson, GCHS' cross country and track coach. After coaching a year in the "consolidated high school," Robinson said the crowded atmosphere at the high school affected the quality of education.

"The crowded situation that I had to deal with precipitated my desire to move. I didn't feel like I was teaching anymore. It's not anybody's fault, it's just the circumstances I was in." (See related story.)

The varsity football position is vacated by Tom Wyrostek, Wyrostek, formerly Granite City North High School head coach who accepted the GCHS coaching position after the high schools were consolidated last year, is on exploratory leave.

ACCORDING to the teachers' union contract with the district, teachers may take this leave of absence for one year which enables them to seek professions outside teaching. Wyrostek, who has worked part time at a car dealership in Fairmont City, has accepted the truck manager's position at the dealership while on exploratory leave.

In a brief interview Wednesday, Wyrostek would not comment on whether his position at the dealership was permanent, but he did say that the years he taught and coached in the Granite City School District were unforgettable.

"I have no qualms about the district. The kids always gave me their best, and this has nothing to do with a win-loss record. This is a very good opportunity for me," Wyrostek said of the car dealership.

EXPLAINING the resignations, Fedora said he understands the reasons why the coaches have submitted their resignations.

"Generally, each year we have about three coaching resignations," Fedora said. "This may be somewhat more than usual, but not too much more. The problem of filling the positions is compounded, as I mentioned by not having the younger coaches in the district."

"We're going to miss all of our coaches, and as for Pete (Robinson) he'll be missed by everyone. Nebraska's gain is certainly Granite City's loss," Fedora concluded.

Robinson accepts Nebraska job; bids farewell

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

One year ago, Granite City's Board of Education came to an unpopular decision which necessitated closing six district schools and laying off 107 school employees.

A year later, those remaining district employees are still coping with the effects of that decision. One such person is Granite City High School teacher and three-sport coach Pete Robinson.

Robinson was forced to make a difficult decision recently. He had to decide whether to stay in Granite City, a community where he grew up and taught for more than 21 years, or travel to another area and begin anew.

Unhappy with his current situation, Robinson filed his resignation with the board office June 16. This fall he will begin his duties as teacher and coach in Central City, Neb.

"There are a lot of negative factors about leaving, but I thought the positive outweighed the negative," said Robinson.

"The crowded situation that I had to deal with precipitated my desire to move. I didn't feel like I was teaching anymore."

"It's not anybody's fault, it's just the circumstances I was in. Other people seemed to deal with it, but I was having trouble fitting into that situation," Robinson said of the overcrowding.

The closing of Granite City's North High School left the district with one high school for 3,000 students. This, along with the reduction in staff, necessitated physical education class sizes to increase from an average of 32 students to 50 students.

"I didn't think I was being fair to myself or to my students — being in a situation I really wasn't happy and comfortable with. That's the real reason I wanted to move," Robinson said.

Robinson taught in five Granite City schools during his years with the district. He began his teaching career at Neldringhaus Elementary where he taught for 2½ years.

The next eight years, Robinson taught at the junior high level. He spent three years at Central Elementary and five years at Grigsby Junior High, before transferring in 1973 to the newly opened Granite City North High School.

During his years at North, Robinson earned the respect of his students by working to develop the best qualities of each individual.

"I try to be as fair and honest as I can with every student I teach. I try to find the positive things in each one of them, although sometimes that's not always easy. I found out over the years that's the best avenue for me to take as far as having a good relationship with my classes," said member of that team, went on to become an All American.

Winning the sectional in 1975 was a great moment personally for me as a coach. As far as I know it's the only cross country sectional any Granite City team has ever won. That was a great group of young men I worked with that year.

"I guess there will always be a little bit of North in me. It was kind of tough to shut that school down. We

"I'm not too excited about leaving a lot of good people back in Granite City. I'll always feel a part of it. You don't leave 21 years of something without getting a lot of roots. That part's going to be the hardest."

Pete Robinson
GCHS coach and educator

Robinson of his teaching philosophy.

Robinson said he has a lot of fond memories of some of the kids who were outstanding physical education students. "They weren't always good athletes but they worked hard and seemed to enjoy my classes," he said.

Robinson's philosophy carries over into the type of classes he likes to teach. His favorite classes are gymnastics and archery because he feels he can give the students more individualized instruction.

"I felt like I was able to teach more in the individual activities than I was in the team sports. I could see progress immediately," said Robinson.

"You get kind of excited when you see a kid do a stunt in gymnastics that you know he couldn't do before he got there. So you get to share some of that experience with him."

During his years at North, Robinson was involved in coaching as well as teaching. He served as the head cross country coach for 10 years. He was also assistant track coach and assistant wrestling coach.

Many of his best memories came during his years as a Steele. One specific highlight Robinson recalled was the success of the 1975 cross country team. Mike Baker, a worked so hard for traditions and getting the program off the ground. Ten years, it seems like a long time but it really isn't. It went awfully fast," Robinson said of his years at North.

Robinson will now try to put his past behind him and move on to accept his new position. There will be some changes he will have to go through. He will be going from a community of 40,000, with 3,000 high school students, to a community of 3,000, with 200 high school students.

"The schools out there are ranked in divisions. We're right in the middle of Class B, the smaller division," said Robinson of his new assignment.

"But, I saw some of their track records and they have some pretty good athletes."

Another change that Robinson will have to adjust to is the age group of his students. Since going to Granite City North in 1973, Robinson has taught exclusively high school students. In Nebraska he will be teaching first grade through high school.

"I will be spending half the day in the elementary and middle school. This will help me to get to know the kids and them me before they even get to high school," Robinson said.

Along with Robinson's teaching duties, he'll be tackling the position of ninth grade football coach. He will also be head wrestling coach. Fortunately, these are all tasks which Robinson is looking forward to.

"As sad as I am about leaving here, I know once I get out there and get wrapped up in that new program it's going to be a good shot in the arm for me."

"I'm going to be involved in something I've never been involved in before with football. I think that will be kind of interesting trying to learn new formations and defenses. It will be quite a challenge to go out there and coach something completely new to me," said Robinson.

Weighing the pluses of his move, Robinson mentioned the district's excellent facilities which include an

THEN AND NOW. In 1982, Pete Robinson, then cross country coach at Granite City North, and his assistant, Joe Heffner, talk with Granite City South Coach Dick Harmon and assistant Sam Nesbit during a dual cross country meet between the schools. eight-lane all-weather track.

It's no accident that Robinson selected Nebraska to relocate. He decided on that area mainly to be closer to his wife's, Evelyn's, family. That factor, along with his admiration for the Central City school district, aided him in his decision.

He felt not only would it be a good district in which to teach, but also for his children, Jill and Laurie, to attend school.

My daughters will be in classes of 17 instead of 35 students. The size of my classes will also decrease," said Robinson.

"It's a real nice community and a real nice school system and we think were going to be happy there as a family."

Although Pete Robinson is preparing to leave Granite City, his presence will long be felt by the students and faculty with whom he worked.

"I'm not too excited about leaving a lot of good people back in Granite City. I'll always feel a part of it," Robinson said with emotion.

"You don't leave 21 years of something without getting a lot of roots. That part's going to be the hardest."

Former resident inducted into Hall

Louis Lasiter has just recently been elected to the Illinois College Sports Hall of Fame. Held last month, it was the first ever such recognition by the school located in Jacksonville.

Also chosen was teammate and close friend, Virgil Fletcher of Collinsville.

Lasiter, known as "Too Tall," stood 6'10" and starred at center for the "Blue Boys" basketball squad from 1934 through 1936. In 1934, he set season- and single-game scoring records for the entire Little Nineteen Conference.

He repeated as conference scoring champion in 1935, leading his team to the conference championship and was selected as conference Most Valuable Player.

Believed to be one of the first truly "Big Men" to play collegiate basketball, Lasiter's height and jump ability were of tremendous value, during a time when a center jump was required after each basket.

On his way toward a third scoring title and second M.V.P. award, Lasiter was slowed by pneumonia his senior year and wound up second.

The award was made posthumously to his son, Mike Lasiter, and daughter, Cindy Millsap, of Granite City.

Lasiter, a graduate of Metropolis High School in 1929 and lived in Granite City for many years, died Aug. 4, 1979.

Triplets whip East Alton for pair of victories

By ALAN L. GERSTENCKER

Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — Members of Tri-City Senior Legion baseball team can tell you two things about superstitions — it'll either make a team or break it.

Tuesday evening as the local hurlers were hosting East Alton Post 794 at Varsity Field, Triplet Coach Dave Coakley displayed the superstition that has come to be a big part of the team and the hit and run.

After seeing his team's 7-1 lead slip away to a 7-3 advantage in a few short minutes of the fourth inning, Coakley walked out to the mound to talk to his right-handed hurler Allen Zentgraf.

"HOLDING one of those 'sermons on the mound' as baseball coaches so often do, Coakley and his entire team simultaneously turned their hats inside out and proceeded to wear them that way for the duration of the game."

"We had to do something to stop their momentum," Coakley said of East Alton. "Someone suggested that we turn our hats around, so that's what we did. Evidently, it did the job," a happy Coakley said afterwards.

Evidently it did.

From the moment Coakley walked off the mound with his hat turned inside out, his team regained the momentum it had earlier relinquished.

Rescheduled July 13th

GC, Troy Juniors end in 12-12 tie

GRANITE CITY — When a team walks onto a baseball diamond, it expects to leave either a winner or a loser. When the Granite City Jr. Legion team took the field Wednesday against Troy, they did neither.

Duckness forced the rescheduling of the 12-12 game which was called after the ninth inning. The game will resume in the 10th inning July 13th when Granite City will travel to Troy.

Granite City, which entered the game with a 2-4 record, was lucky to escape without another defeat.

TROY scored eight runs in the first inning to take what looked like an insurmountable lead. They added another run in the second inning to pull ahead 9-0.

Granite City was able to put together some offense and entered the seventh inning with the score 12-5.

It looked as if all hopes were lost for Granite City in the seventh as the first two batters grounded out. But ZENTGRAF, for example, retired the next three batters. He got East Alton's Rich Kearby to ground out to Triplet first baseman Keith Coakley for the first out; Pat Watkins to ground out to Randy Burgess at third for the second out, and then sent Will Miller down on strikes.

From then on, East Alton never seriously threatened the Triplets as they went on to pick up their second win of the season 13-4. In fact, the Triplets flustered with making it a five-inning contest, coming within an out of gaining a six-run lead.

AS MUCH as anything, Coach Coakley's trip to the mound was a vehicle for his team to vent their tension — a method of keeping his team relaxed.

Nothing could have been more effective. The Triplets' baseball apparel didn't exactly look like the National Baseball League's best, but their play spoke loudly enough about their ability.

In all, the Warriors scattered 16 hits in the scoring extravaganza. Swinging the hot bats were lead-off batter Jerry Booker and cleanup hitter Terry Rujawitz. Both were 3-for-4 on the evening.

HITTING safely in every inning and scoring in every inning but the fifth, it was the Triplets' best offensive effort of the season. Prior to Tuesday night's showing, the Triplets' best night at the plate came against Collinsville on June 4, a game the Triplets managed 11 hits but lost 8-6.

"We're starting to hit better now," Coakley said. "We're starting to wait on the ball a little bit. Before we'd get out there swing at the first pitch, or not wait for our pitch. We seem to be doing that now. We're beginning to settle down at the plate."

THE TRIPLETS wasted little time in showing their intentions of winning Tuesday's game. Booker tripled to start things off and then scored when Keith Coakley swatted him in with a single to center field.

Designated hitter Pat Cathey reached on a walk to put runners on first and second for Rujawitz who slapped a two-RBI single to increase the Triplets' lead to three, 3-0.

Tri-City made it 4-0 as they continued to execute to perfection in the second inning. Keith Coakley squeezed home Shane Cole who reached on a single to center field. Coakley's sacrifice bunt, right down the first base line, couldn't have been better, offering little other alternative than making a play on him at first base.

EAST ALTON managed to recoup a run in the top of the third when Jim Guthrie tripled in Greg Turner who reached on walk.

In the Triplets' half of the third the local squad continued their offensive as they scored three runs on four hits. Rujawitz led off with a single to left field. Rujawitz, however, was called out as he tried to steal second when Triplet Sam Tate stepped across the plate, interfering with Scott Pearson's attempted throw to second. Rujawitz successfully stole the base, but because of the interference was called out.

Tate made good on his batting efforts as he singled to right field, advanced to second on Art Williams' infield hit and then scored when East Alton's Dennis Krieb walked Steve Davis and Cole.

THE TRIPLETS picked up their sixth run of the game when Randy Burgess grounded out to the pitcher, scoring Williams from third.

Tri-City's final tally of the inning came when Booker doubled to the right-center field gap to score Davis from second.

Timely hitting by two Triplets provided another three-run inning in Tri-City's fourth. An RBI triple by Rujawitz and a two-RBI double by Davis was all the Triplets needed in the fourth to increase their advantage to seven, 10-3.

Following a scoreless fifth, the Triplets picked up their final three runs in the sixth. Tate led off with a single to right-center field, stole second and then scored on Davis' double to left field.

BURGESS picked up his second hit and RBI of the game when he singled in Davis with a shot to left field. The final Triplet tally of the game came as Booker picked up Tri-City's 10th hit of the game as he singled to center field, scoring Burgess from second.

In few words, Tri-City's offense overshadowed the efforts of East Alton. East Alton managed its four runs on five hits — one off reliever Dan Whitsett.

In what amounted to a rematch the following night, last night, Tri-City picked up yet another victory by posting an impressive 18-3 victory over East Alton.

THE VICTORIES improve Tri-City's record to 3-7 overall and 2-4 in the North Division.

In Wednesday's game, Tri-City's bats continued to resound, scattering 21 hits. Tri-City picked four runs in the first inning, two in the third, three in the fourth, one in the fifth, seven in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Booker was again the hot man at the plate for Tri-City as he hit safely in five of six trips to the plate. Other fine offensive performances were turned in by Cole, 4-for-5, Tate, 2-for-3, Keith Coakley and Rujawitz 2-for-4 each, Cathey and Burgess 1-for-3 each, Whitsett 1-for-2 and Williams 2-for-5.

Williams was the winning pitcher for Tri-City while Guthrie was tagged for the loss for East Alton.

Booker, Tri-City's utility, did everything, was credited with the save.

The Triplets resume action this evening as they travel north to meet North Division leader Alton. On Friday, the Triplets will host Alton at Wilson Park Diamond One. Both games begin at 6 p.m.

Rescheduled July 13th GC, Troy Juniors end in 12-12 tie

GRANITE CITY — When a team walks onto a baseball diamond, it expects to leave either a winner or a loser. When the Granite City Jr. Legion team took the field Wednesday against Troy, they did neither.

Duckness forced the rescheduling of the 12-12 game which was called after the ninth inning. The game will resume in the 10th inning July 13th when Granite City will travel to Troy.

Granite City, which entered the game with a 2-4 record, was lucky to escape without another defeat.

TROY scored eight runs in the first inning to take what looked like an insurmountable lead. They added another run in the second inning to pull ahead 9-0.

Granite City was able to put together some offense and entered the seventh inning with the score 12-5.

It looked as if all hopes were lost for Granite City in the seventh as the first two batters grounded out. But Greg Lilley and Rich Wilson both reached on walks to keep the inning going.

Charlie Collins came through with an RBI single that scored Lilley. Todd Hinters added another base hit for Granite City.

YOUNG ADAMITS delivered the big blow of the inning with a double that scored three. Scott LeVault and David Bamber each added RBI singles to tie the score at 12-12.

Bamber stole second to put the winning run in scoring position, but Danny Robertson struck out to end the inning.

The eighth and ninth innings were scoreless necessitating the postponement.

"The score didn't indicate it, but Jay (Valbert) pitched good game," said Granite City coach Paul Kacera. "Ten of the 12 runs were unearned."

Granite City's next game will be Saturday at Varsity Field when they will host Belleville in a 1 p.m. contest.

Loses To Bethalto Wednesday

MAC upends Alton, E. Alton Juniors

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

MITCHELL The Mitchell Athletic Club Jr. Legion team chalked up two more wins this week as they defeated Alton on Monday 14-11 and East Alton Post 794 on Tuesday 10-0. Those wins put Mitchell's record at 9-1.

"But, Wednesday was another story. After posting decisive victories on Monday and Tuesday, MAC's Jr. Legion fell to Bethalto 9-1. "I expect to win every game," said Mitchell coach Myron Merz. "We should be able to beat any team on a given night. But doing it is something else. I feel we are one of the top teams in the league right now."

In Tuesday's five-inning contest, Mitchell broke on top in the first with two runs. Billy Moore, who reached on a fielder's choice, scored on an error by the pitcher.

Merz came around to score Mitchell's second run as Greg Ehlers lined a single up the middle. Mitchell loaded the bases, but Ryan Weeks hit a line drive to the short-stop to end the inning.

Mitchell added another run in the second inning as it put together two extra base hits. Greg Nemeth started the inning off with a triple into right field. Moore shot the ball into left field for a run-scoring double.

In the fourth inning, Mitchell broke the game open. Eric Gray and Merz opened the inning with base hits to center field. Gray came around to score with a stolen base and an error by East Alton's catcher, Rick Fedorchek.

Merz was sent home as Ehlers reached on an error. Tim Gray also reached on an error that sent Ehlers to third. Tim Groves got the RBI as he drove in Ehlers with a single.

Tim Stanton delivered an RBI single to left field to send home Mitchell's fifth run of the inning. Eric Gray scored Stanton as he hit his second single of the inning into center field. Mitchell added their 10th run in the bottom of the fifth inning. Merz led off the inning with a triple. After Ehlers had struck out, Tim Gray laid down a bunt to squeeze home Merz.

While the hitters were busy scoring runs, Mitchell's pitcher, Tim Gray, was busy getting the East Alton batters out. Gray held Post 794 batters to just four hits to increase his record to 3-0.

ESPITE Gray's fine performance, Mitchell coach Myron Merz feels, because of the number of games his team has scheduled, pitching is a problem.

"Pitching is hurting us right now. "We've had seven games in six days. The kids are getting pretty tired. They're pitching with just three days' rest and it's starting to get to them. If we can get through tomorrow's game, we should be okay," Merz said after Tuesday's game.

Unfortunately for Mitchell, they could not hold out to win another game. On Wednesday, Mitchell fell to Bethalto 9-1 for their second defeat of the season.

"We had no hitting. The kids just ran out of gas. It was just too many games in a row," said Coach Merz. Mitchell's next game will be at home Friday against Greenville.

Spanky's whallops Sauget 23-5

By AL BARNES for the Press-Record

SAUGET — After a 1-3 road trip to Carlinville, Iowa, over the past weekend, it was real nice for the 7-Up/Spanky's players last night here as they whalloped the Sauget team of Manager Bobby Hughes, 23-5. It made the Spanky record 12-7.

Manager Bill Stoltie's 7-Up/Spanky's aggregation all had their hitting eyes well tuned up and connecting. Young Pete Delkus, SIU-E freshman mound ace from Collinsville, felt the full fury of the Spanky bats right off as he gave up four runs in the second inning and one piece in the third and fourth. Todd Teeters, who relieved for Sauget in the fifth didn't get off any

Against Wedgewood
Paddlers' open with pair of wins

FLORISSANT — The swimming and diving teams of Paddlers' Swim Club opened its 1984 season here Tuesday with a pair of victories over host Wedgewood Swim Club.

In diving competition which began at approximately 5 p.m., Coach Gayle McCormick's divers bettered their Wedgewood opponents 38-28. In swimming competition, which began about an hour and a half later, Coach Celeste Sonnenberg's squad outdistanced their Wedgewood counterparts 375-250.

THE PAIR of victories were the first of what both coaches hope will be many as teach teams seeks to retain its Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association titles.

In diving competition, Paddlers' captured five first-place titles. Beginning in the 10 years and under category, Brent Golden and Jenny Baker each captured first place medals.

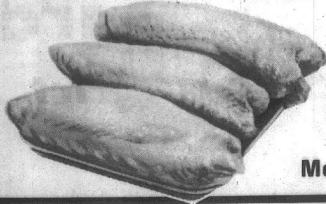

In the 13-14 year age group Paddlers picked up another boy-girl first place duo. Mike McCormick worked his way to a first-place finish as did Heather Crane.

PADDLERS' divers picked up their final first place finish as Stacie Gassett won the 15-17 year old boys' division.

Paddlers' swim team picked up its 375 points in the 74 events with the help of four record-breaking performances by two swimmers.

Two programs abolished by SIUE Board of Trustees

Two degree programs and an educational unit at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were abolished, effective June 1985, in actions Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

Terminated were: the master of city and regional planning degree program, major in city and regional planning, department of Earth Science, geography, and planning School of Social Sciences, effective June 15, 1985; the bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degree program, major in human services, delinquency study and youth development center, effective June 15, 1985; and the delinquency study and youth development center, effective June 30, 1985.

University officers said enrollment and graduations in the master of city and regional planning program have declined dramatically, and significant problems within the program have continued since they were formally identified in an internal program review in 1979. A formal moratorium on admissions to the program was declared on March 17, 1983.

FACTORS IN THE decision to abolish the degree program in human services offered by the Delinquency Study and Youth Development Center included curriculum problems, sharply declining enrollment and decreased employment opportunities. The Faculty Senate formally recommended termination of the program in March, and accep-lance of majors into the program was formally discontinued the following day.

After an assessment of the issues, the Office of the Vice President and Provost concurred with the Faculty senate recommendation and further determined that the center should also be abolished.

In all three situations, the provost's office determined that the academic needs of students could be met by other existing programs, and students currently enrolled in the programs would be permitted a reasonable period to continue and complete their work without interruption.

THE TERMINATION actions will be reported to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Openings are available for hospice trip

A few openings remain for the sixth annual work-study trip to a British hospice from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to Charles A. Corr, professor of philosophical studies. The trip will run from June 29 to July 15.

Participants will work and study for two weeks in one of the leading British hospice units. St. Luke's Nursing Home, Sheffield, led by Professor Corr, is well known for his teaching, research, and publications in the field of death and dying. In 1978, he worked for 10 weeks as a volunteer at St. Luke's; he has since led five successful work-study trips to England.

THE TWO-WEEK trip to St. Luke's will include to working days: a two-day orientation; at least two days with each of the morning and afternoon in-patient nursing team shifts; experience with the 12-hour overnight shift; a day or two with St. Luke's distinctive Day Unit and occupational therapists; some time with doctors and medicine rounds for nurses; if possible, a morning with a physical therapist; individually scheduled meetings as desired; with key St. Luke's professional administrative and specialized personnel and a concluding study day for debriefing.

Prior to departure, Corr will give an introductory session dealing with principles of hospice care and the opportunities available on the trip. At Sheffield, he will participate in orientation and debriefing sessions, serve as liaison with St. Luke's staff, and contribute to formal and informal discussions.

SIUE is expected to offer eight Continuing Education Units to each participant; academic credit may be arranged at a small additional cost for those who undertake a related project.

THE FEE for the work-study trip is $1,125, payable directly to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. This does not include air fare to London; however, those who wish to make travel arrangements with the group may contact Corr at Box 43, SIUE, Edwardsville Ill. 62026, phone 1-692-2250 or 1-314-863-5691. Any other inquiries also should be directed to Corr.

The fee to SIUE does cover transportation between London and Sheffield, accommodations in Sheffield, St. Luke's, all meals, and complete their work without interruption.

In addition to the essential work-study, the schedule allows for sightseeing, shopping, and cultural events, both in Sheffield and London.

Sou'Wester story takes $500 award

"Papers of an Unknown Man," a short story by Daniel Curley published in the Summer 1983 issue of the "Sou'Wester," has received a $500 prize from the Illinois Arts Council.

"Sou'Wester," a magazine of poetry and fiction, is published through the department of English language and literature at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The prize is one of the 1983 Literary Awards of the council. It was selected from 121 nominations sent by judges Janet Baskrow and Theodore Enslin and Philip M. Royer.

"Papers of an Unknown Man" is a story of a man looking back upon the ruins of a life, with comments inserted by his psychoanalyst. Curley has published stories recently in a number of quality literary magazines and had previously won an Illinois Arts Council award. He is a member of the English department at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

Fiscal emergency policy approved

A new fiscal emergency policy for the Southern Illinois University System was approved by the SIUE Board of Trustees. The policy replaces the one-year fiscal emergency policy provisions approved in June 1983 dealing with mandatory leaving of absence without pay for contractual employees and involuntary pay reductions for all employees.

The policy affirms the authority of the board to declare a fiscal emergency and to take actions to cope with the situation. The policy recognizes that a fiscal emergency may vary in degree, ranging from a temporary financial crisis to a long-term loss of resources. The terms are described as follows:

A "SHORT-TERM" emergency ("condition of financial necessity") would be one requiring payroll cuts beyond such budget trimming as term appointment non-renewals, leaving positions unfilled and other cost-cutting measures. Unpaid leaves for all employees could be declared in a short-term emergency.

A long-term emergency ("financial exigency") would be one of imminent-crisis proportions. It could mean terminating tenured and non-tenured faculty and eliminating or reducing programs.

The policy provides procedural guidelines for the declaration of a fiscal emergency and the authorization of actions to deal with the problem, as well as appeal procedures for employees who may be affected.

The board received the proposed policy in May at the meeting of the trustees in Edwardsville and held the matter for comments and further discussion at the regular meeting.

'Family Day' at New Salem

New Salem Missionary Baptist Church, 1349 Klein St., Venice, will hold its annual "Family and Friends Day" at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, June 24, the Rev. John Henry Williams, pastor, announced today.

A dinner will be served immediately following the service and musical program, the minister said. Theme of the special program will be "The Christian ID Badge." Mrs. Vallie Warrick is serving as chairman, with Mrs. Lizzie Brown as co-chairman.

Welcoming remarks will be given by Mrs. Willie Etta Flowers and Mrs. Linda Roberson, master of ceremonies, will be introduced by Mrs. Brown.

Julius Johnson Sr., Charles Watts and Julius Johnson Jr. will offer the devotional, and the New Salem Mass Choir will lead the processional and also present choral selections.

The Rev. Rodney Winters, pastor of St. Matthew Baptist Church, East St. Louis, is the scheduled guest speaker.

A visiting choral group from St. Matthew Church also will sing two selections, the chairman advised.

The financial appeal will be given by Mrs. Mary Bell Wilson. Albert Johnson, Ethel Williams and Regina Johnson are in charge of the offering.

Many church families, accompanied by friends, are expected to attend the special program, the Rev. Williams said.

Among the families to be recognized during the service will be the Brown, Claggett, Ervin, Franklin, Glasper, Walker, George, Keen, Wilson, Sanders, Gidron, Johnson, Jackson, Alford, McClelland, Wade, Warrick, Hill, Fields, Shaw, Watts, Williams and Woods.

Baptist youth visit Six Flags

The youth from First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, visited Six Flags Over Mid-America amusement park Saturday, June 16.

Among the highlights of the trip were performances by The Beach Boys and the United States diving team.

Church officials say the youths worked to raise money for the trip.

Large audience attends Jehovah's Witnesses meeting

An audience of 13,500 Jehovah's Witnesses filled the Arena in St. Louis Sunday for the final sessions of the "Kingdom Increase" district convention of the religious group.

The key speech, "A Government That Accomplishes What Man Cannot," was given by James Roberts of St. Louis.

Roberts contrasted the great scientific achievements of the 20th Century with the problems that perplex the family.

Roberts said people reap the benefits from modern technology, but are threatened with extinction by new weapons of enormous power. He pointed to economic crises, rapidly changing lifestyles, moral decay, disease and hunger as problems that remain unsolved despite technological advancement.

"In the United States, some 34 million persons are classified as living below the poverty line," he said, "and as many as 2½ million citizens are without a place to live."

Human governments cannot solve global conflict, Roberts said. He reported that governments of the underdeveloped world are 700 billion dollars in debt, and many cannot pay the interest on their loans.

"The United States' debt has passed one trillion, four hundred billion dollars. Just the interest on it yearly is over 120 billion dollars," he said.

Grant renamed general

After his service as president, U.S. Grant suffered such severe financial reverses that he was almost destitute. To relieve the situation, Congress on March 3, 1885, passed an act restoring him to the rank and full pay of a general.

Local dancers to perform in Polish festival

Festive dances and lively polka music will welcome summer at the St. Louis Gateway Arch, Saturday, June 23, as the Polish American Cultural Society of Metropolitan St. Louis hosts the celebration of the traditional "wianki," or St. John's Eve festival. Folk songs and dances marking the start of summer will be performed by the Slawa Polish Dance Troupe, which is sponsored by the St. Stanislaus Kostka Lodge of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America in Madison. Mark Sarich is the director of the dancers.

St. Louis' first St. John's Eve festival, which is open to the public free of charge, will open at 4 p.m. Slawa dancers, dressed in the authentic costumes of the Beskid Slask region of southwestern Poland, will perform regional dances such as the polka and czardas. Later, they will perform dances specifically associated with the "wianki," including the blessing dance, a goat dance and a number called, "Frogs and Rabbits."

The program will culminate with a procession from the dance area on the south tarmac of the Jefferson Expansion Memorial to the nearby reflecting pool. Here, Slawa will play the Marzanna or straw effigy representing winter. The girls will then float lush summer wreaths across the pool which their sweethearts will try to retrieve to prove their love.

Between dance sets, members of the Botton Box Club will play traditional polka music. The Polish American Cultural Society also has arranged an exhibit of Polish folk art to coincide with the performance.

Sarich explained that the celebration of the "wianki" came to be traced to prehistoric times. Christian missionaries to Poland took the existing customs—marking the summer solstice and incorporated them into church related festivities surrounding the feast of St. John the Baptist. Much of the symbolism in this festivals recalls the pagan rituals celebrating the fertility and life of summer.

"The agricultural society of Beskid depended on the cycle of the seasons, especially the arrival of summer, for their very survival. On the summer solstice, they made sure that winter was dead, thus opening the door for the fertility of summer," Sarich noted. He added, "Even today, the traditional wianki is the second most important folk festival in Poland after the harvest festival."

The "wianki" takes its name from "wianek," the Polish word for the wreaths which the young girls float across the water during the celebration. The fire used to destroy the Marzanna is a symbol of the sun and summer while the water represents the season's fertility. In researching the observance of this festival as recounted in various Polish documents, Sarich discovered that in marching from the south leg of the Arch to the south reflecting pool, the troupe will maintain the Polish custom of the wianki moving from east to west another allusion to the sun.

St. John's Eve festivals are popular throughout Europe and were immortalized in Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." With the renewed interest in ethnic affairs, the "wianki" has been re-enacted by other Polish-American groups. Perhaps the most widely known is the one which is held annually in Washington, D.C., beside the reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial.

Saturday's presentation will feature the Slawa Polish Dance

Troupe, who range in age from 7 to 21 years. In its fifth year, Slawa already has performed throughout the St. Louis Metropolitan area, as well as in Philadelphia and Chicago. The troupe's name comes from the Polish meaning glory, honor, holiness.

Slawa's director, Sarich, earned his bachelor of arts degree in music composition theory from the University of Illinois in 1976. He has studied under the internationally-known composer, Ben Johnston, and various experts of ethnic dance.

"The public is being invited to join us in the fun of welcoming summer in authentic Polish style on Saturday, June 23, at the Gateway Arch from 4 p.m. until dusk. In the event of rain, the wianki will be celebrated the following day, Sunday, June 24," Sarich noted.

Truck, tractor pull at DuQuoin Saturday

Saturday, June 23, the DuQuoin State Fair will host its first Grand National Truck and Tractor Pull, sanctioned by the American Truck Pull Association.

Appearing will be all the biggest names in hot rod truck and tractor pulling with select stars from coast to coast. Leading the parade will be "King Kong," the world's largest 4 X 4 attempting to drive over a mountain of cars. Other vehicles are "Big Bad, Blown 'The Dragster'" plus the hottest two-wheeler "Mother Jugs and Speed," after which a film starring Bill Cosby was made.

All of these and many more will compete using their maximum brute strengths. Tractors and semi-tractors will try to beat the undefeated Ray Carpenter-owned 2,200 horse Peterbilt, "The Bounty Hunter."

Action begins Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the DuQuoin State Fair grandstand. Tickets now are on sale at the DuQuoin State Fair Ticket Office 1-542-5495. Advance ticket prices are: adults $9, and children under 12 years, $4. Event day ticket prices are $10 for adults and children under 12 years, $5. The raindate will be Sunday, June 24, at 2 p.m.

Bi-State Bus Rodeo this weekend

More than 100 Bi-State drivers and mechanics will demonstrate their skills as they compete for top honors in the seventh Bi-State Bus Rodeo, Saturday and Sunday at Bi-State's new Main Repair Facility, 3300 Spruce at Compton, St. Louis. The event will run from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. The public is being invited and admission is free.

"The Rodeo is being held to recognize publicly the operators and maintenance personnel who have had outstanding performance and attendance records, to allow them to display their skills and to demonstrate to the public that Bi-State promotes the skills that contribute to passenger safety and comfort," Michael Setzer, general manager of transit, said.

The Rodeo competition will be divided into two areas, one for operators and one for maintenance crews. The winning bus operator will win an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., to compete in the international competition in October. The first place maintenance crew will split a $1,000 cash prize.

Bus operators will take a written safety quiz consisting of questions every operator should know regarding the safe operation of a bus, perform a routine pre-trip inspection of a bus containing a number of hidden safety and maintenance defects and be judged on their grooming and personal appearance before proceeding to the driving portion of the competition.

Operators then will have seven minutes to negotiate successfully an 11-part obstacle course. Contestants must maneuver their buses through a serpentine course of traffic cones and barrels, make turns, back up, pick up passengers, and drive through an area of diminishing clearance. They are also tested on their braking reaction time.

"Timing and placement are critical factors in completion of the obstacle course," Setzer said. "Maneuvering a 40-foot-long, 13-ton bus without power steering through a narrow course quickly takes a great deal of skill and concentration."

Items included in the maintenance competition will be driving skills, visual inspection, daily routine service checks, mechanical defects, interior and exterior cleanliness and identification of 20 mechanical components of a bus. Teamwork, accuracy and speed are the key to winning the maintenance competition, Setzer said.

'Y-Pals' plan trip to the Cardinal game

The Tri-City Area YMCA is sponsoring a new program, "Y-Pals." It is designed to address the needs of economically disadvantaged youth ages 6 to 12 and youth who come from disrupted homes.

Fun type activities will be offered four to six times a year, with the intent of providing youth with opportunities for enhancing self-esteem, having fun, leadership, knowing someone cares about them, other than parents and showing adults as role models.

Activities will include a Christmas party, sporting events, camps, fun nights at the "Y" and more.

The next activity will be Tuesday, June 26, at the St. Louis Cardinals baseball game. Approximately 150 youth will attend.

"Y-Pals (adult volunteers) are needed. If you are interested in helping youth a few hours a day; several days a week, contact Dave Penrite, at 876-7200," a spokesman said, adding, "Youth are our best asset."

Cheerleader camp to open on Monday

Hundreds of Southern Illinois area junior and senior high school cheerleaders are expected to assemble at Metro-East Lutheran High School, 1001 Center Grove Road, Edwardsville, Monday, June 25, for the annual summer cheerleader camp.

Mrs. Cherie Siever, organizer of the camp and cheerleader advisor at Metro-East Lutheran, says they are very pleased to have the World Cheerleader Council return to this area in June to conduct the second annual summer cheerleader camp. She says they provide the students with excellent leadership materials, which enable them to return to their schools as leaders rather than as performers. She also says the cheers, pom routines and general philosophy of cheerleading taught by the WCC are certainly beneficial if the students are to be real leaders in their schools.

The World Cheerleader Council is based in Dallas, Texas. The staff of college and professional cheerleader instructors has traveled throughout the United States and Canada conducting camps and clinics for 13 years. In addition to the cheers and pom routines offered, the program of instruction features jumps, stunts, mounts, workshop, evaluation, leadership crowd control, appearances and conduct.

Mrs. Siever also said that this will be a commuter camp with classes beginning at 8:30 a.m. and ending at 4:30 p.m., except for the last day, when the camp ends at 3:30 p.m. She said they decided to host a commuter camp last year because it is far less expensive for the students to attend a commuter camp than one of the resident camps held on a college campus. The students save what they would normally spend on rooms and meals and facility usage fees at a college camp. Plus, they receive more instruction from the WCC in three days than they would in a full week at another camp.

She adds that this camp is also good because it offers something for everyone—from beginners to advanced students. It's open to all students, ages 12 to 18, whether elected cheerleaders or individuals interested in learning more about cheerleading for future tryouts.

Students interested in obtaining more information about the camp, or to register, may contact Mr. Cherie Sievers at 1-635-8002 or Metro-East Lutheran High School, 1-656-0043.

For the next several weeks, First Granite City National Bank's downtown lobby is featuring a photo display created by Granite City Steel depicting the steel company's colorful history.

The display features old photo reproductions of early facilities, along with a feature-length video recording of the 1935 film production, "A Story in Steel." The production, filmed on location at Granite City Steel, depicts life in the local steel mill in the 1930s. The film is a project headed by former Chairman Nicholas Veeder at a production cost of almost $400,000.

The display is available for public viewing during regular business hours in the lobby of First Granite City National Bank, 20th Street and Edison Avenue.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

A woman who is divorced and remarried will frequently want her new husband to adopt her children. Often a woman in this situation will inquire about terminating the parental rights of her former husband. If the natural father's parental rights are terminated, he no longer has any visitation rights with his children, and he also has no obligation to continue supporting his offspring.

Why do many mothers want to seek an adoption in this situation? One reason may be because they want to avoid all further contact with the former husband. In addition, the mother often wants the child to carry the same name as the new husband to avoid the embarrassment of different last names when the child begins school. Finally, the mother may view an adoption as a means of bringing about a closer bond between her present husband and the child.

If the natural father will consent to the adoption, he can appear before a judge and sign papers terminating his parental rights. If he will not consent, the mother will have to file a petition with the Court alleging that the father is "unfit" or that he has "abandoned" the child. In this case, the burden of proof is on the mother to establish that these allegations are true. The father, of course, has the right to appear in court to contest this matter.

In a recent case, the parents were divorced and the mother obtained custody. Within a year, she was remarried to a man who was transferred to a different part of the country. When she relocated, the natural father had little opportunity to visit the children. Even when he was in the area, the mother refused to let him see the children. Because he wasn't getting visitation, he stopped paying child support.

Approximately six months after her remarriage, she filed a petition to adopt alleging that her former husband had abandoned the children. The petition also stated that the natural father was an unfit parent. At the hearing, she testified that he had not seen the children in more than ten months. She never sent them gifts or cards on special occasions, and that he stopped paying support several months before the hearing. The father stated that the reason he never saw the children was because of her lack of cooperation. The Court here refused to terminate parental rights and stated that the mother had failed to meet her burden of proof.

SEMC Auxillary: working for a better institution

By CAROL AUSTIN
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

"Let us not grow weary of doing good; in due time we shall reap our harvest," Galatians 6:9.

The St. Elizabeth Medical Center Auxiliary's purpose is to promote interest in the welfare of St. Elizabeth's, to assist in any phase of medical center activities and to devise means of raising money for medical center needs.

Using funds derived from a variety of volunteer services, the auxiliary has extended itself beyond the ordinary expectation of a group of men and women whose average age is approximately 65 years.

Their main sources of income — the gift shop, the coffee shop and patient television service — which operates 363 days a year — have enabled the auxiliary to provide more than $152,000 worth of equipment to St. Elizabeth Medical Center since the first of the year.

The funds provided by the auxiliary go a long way toward providing this private denominational hospital with the "extras" that make the difference between average medical care and the best medical care available.

Included in these "extras" purchased in 1984 is a $100,265 echocardiograph unit, a $10,000 C-arm, a $6,000 satellite TV dish and $5,000 worth of lifeline equipment.

The new computerized echocardiograph unit (ECIO), which performs all diagnostic tests noninvasively went to the Cardiology Department.

ECHO produces images of the heart by using sound waves. These images can help identify abnormalities of the heart muscles or valves and fluid around the heart.

The advanced technology of this unit will allow twice as much information to be gathered, which will increase the accuracy of the patient's diagnosis. And because it is non-invasive, ECHO is less risky and more comfortable for the patient. It can be done on an out-patient basis and only takes about 45 minutes.

The C-Arm, to be used by the sixth floor Coronary Unit, is a mobile radiographic and fluoroscopic system, shaped like the letter "C," which has the ability to follow the body. It reduces procedure time and greatly aids the physician during a procedure.

The C-Arm supplies a constant beam of X-radiation; the image is then converted and displayed on a TV monitor as a live picture. This mobile unit also eliminates the need to transport critically ill patients to radiology for fluoroscopic study. The procedure can be done as they lie in their own bed, in their own room.

The satellite TV dish purchased with funds from the Auxiliary will enable St. Elizabeth Medical Center to receive educational channels and programs not normally available. Hundreds of health and medical programs for physicians, nurses and auxiliary services — such as Bobath Techniques for the Stroke Patient, inroduction to Sports Medicine, the Impact of Computer Age Technology, on Respiratory Therapy, and Preparing a Dietary History Record — are available every day of the year.

The cost of the satellite dish is minimal compared to sending hospital staff to programs out of state, and more people will be exposed to the topics.

The auxiliary also provided 10 new Lifeline emergency response systems for use by the elderly or disabled. The units, placed in a person's home, provide 24-hour access to community medical and social services.

At the touch of a button, an individual can summon help if he or she falls or becomes ill. Each subscriber has a communicator unit attached to his home phone and a portable button that can be worn on clothing or carried in a pocket. The user can be as far away as 200 feet from the telephone.

These "extras" are designed to make St. Elizabeth Medical Center a hospital the community can be proud of.

Governor backs better tax allocation

Governor James R. Thompson said Monday he supports legislation that will allow for more accurate allocation of local sales tax dollars collected by the state and returned to local governments.

The Department of Revenue collects the one percent local sales tax and then distributes it back to the counties. However, the department currently does not receive enough information from all businesses to ensure that the local sales tax revenues generated in one municipality are correctly sent back to that municipality. In a few cases, municipalities are overpaid or underpaid. Money must then be returned to the department for proper distribution.

"Because taxpayer reports are often made from regional or national headquarters, these reports don't always provide accurate information on retail locations in the town where the business is located," the governor said.

"House Bill 2560 will help solve this problem and ensure that local communities and the department don't have to go through the inconvenience and fiscal problems created by having to redistribute tax dollars."

There currently are about 80 misallocation cases under review by the department. The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Judy Baar Topinka of Riverside, would require retailers to provide specific addresses and names for each retail location. The department would then create a list for each municipality to be checked and updated periodically, with the municipality notifying the department of changes or errors on the list. A limit of two years would be established initially for recapturing misallocated funds.

The cost to the state would be about $800,000 in Fiscal Year 1985 for system development and $300,000 to $600,000 annually thereafter for mailing and list updates.

Precoat Metals' 2 addition progressing

Work is progressing on the $1.26 million expansion project for the Granite City plant of Preccoat Metals, a division of Chromalloy American Corp.

Larry Swaney, president of Preccoat Metals, stated that the expansion was necessary "to meet the needs of increased business." Preccoat Metals applies protective and decorative applied finishes to sheet steel.

The expansion project is the second awarded to Ralph Korte Construction Co., Inc. In 1980, Preccoat Metals signed a $5 million design/build contract to build the steel coating plant.

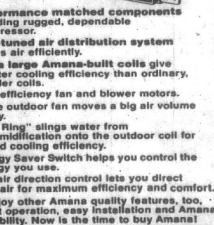

DAMAGE YARD ORNAMENTS

A 300-pound ornamental deer was turned over by vandals, who also broke off the statue's ears, at the home of Roy Rogers, 1014 College Ave., Venice, the owner reported last week. A fish bath and a large bird, also garden ornaments, likewise were damaged, he said.

Lotto total at least $7 million

A single player matching the six winning numbers in the June 23, Illinois lotto would collect a 20-year annuity worth $7 million.

This large prize results from a lack of a grand prize winner June 16. The cash that was in the grand prize pool at the time of the drawing — $1,493,610 — will be rolled over and added to the $1,353,008 expected to be generated from this week's lotto sales. That total, $2,846,618, is sufficient to purchase a single 20-year annuity worth $7 million.

"If lotto sales are higher than usual, as they often are when we offer a larger grand prize, we may be able to increase the single-winner grand prize this week," said Lottery Superintendent Michael J. Jones on Tuesday.

There were 185 players who matched five of the six winning numbers and each will receive second prizes of $3,295. There were also 12,719 who matched four of the six numbers, and they will each receive $71.50.

The winning numbers were 02, 03, 26, 30, 32 and 39.

Raises for some BAC workers

Belleville Area College maintenance and custodial employees and non-academic staff will receive 14.5 percent pay increases over the next three years.

The increases were approved by the college's Board of Trustees last week during a special meeting. Contracts with maintenance and custodial employees call for 5 percent increases during the 1984-85 fiscal year, which begins July 1. Both groups are represented by Service Employees Union, Local 116.

Maintenance personnel will receive $1.55 per hour; custodians, $9.45; and housekeepers, who are part of the custodial unit, $7.60.

Both groups will receive a 4 percent increase in 1985-86 and 5 percent increases in 1986-87.

Non-academic staff, which includes such positions as typewriter, graphic artist and audio-visual technician, will receive a raise recommended in a job classification and compensation plan prepared by the consulting firm of Ernest & Winney. Salaries for these employees very according to job classification and length of service. BAC Personnel Director Larry V. Friederich explained other changes in the contract.

Maintenance and custodial contracts include changes in grievance procedures to include binding arbitration clauses. The changes were made in accordance with a recent state law that governs collective bargaining at educational institutions.

The two contracts also contain no-strike clauses, as required by the Illinois Educational Labor Relation Act.

The custodial contract calls for a tuition benefit for custodians and members of their immediate families. This benefit is one that had been extended to other college employees in the current fiscal year. The board's regular June meeting will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 27, in room 1410 at the college's main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. The agenda will include consideration of the 1984-85 budget.

Post 31 officers are: commander, William L. Schienschang; first vice-commander and judge advocate, Leo Clements; second vice-commander, David R. Clements; third vice-commander, Tait C. Varner.

Finance officer, Harold K. Siebert; provost marshal, Charles R. Wilkins; adjutant, Earl J. Smith; membership director, Floyd C. Tucker; legislative director, Harold W. Brandon; historian and chaplain, Dolt E. Perrigan; and post commander, Joseph O. White.

They were installed by Division V Post Commander Dave Parkhill.

The new Auxiliary officers were installed by State Chaplain Glenda Brockman: president, Shirley Schienschang; first vice-president and parliamentarian, Alberta Manning; second vice-president, Jenny Kidwell; third vice-president, Ann Tucker; sergeant at arms and ways and means chairman, Barbara Siebert.

Secretary, Glenda Brockman; treasurer and chaplain, Betty Clements; hospital and Jr. Amvets coordinator, Brenda White; Americanism chairman, Betty Wilkins; and liaison officer, Charlotte Torregrossa.

A chicken dinner was served. Correspondence included four thank you cards from: the family of Martha Lengyel, past state president of the Amvets Auxiliary, Quincy Navy Mothers Unit 850, Marilyn Ronney of Frohardt School for donation of 200 flags for Memorial Day and Louis Rubinc, a resident of the Quincy Veterans Home who was a guest of Post 51 for the installation.

Vice President Tucker discussed plans for a barbecue and picnic for the Sheltered Care Home.

Hospital Chairman White reported on existing funds for hospital parties and also on items and toiletries sent. Rubinc was given plywood, paint and an artist brush.

Americanism Chairman Wilkins and Betty Clements attended St. Elizabeth School for presentation of the second place award in an essay contest. Jenny Kidwell accompanied Mrs. Wilkins to Frather School to present the winner of an Americanism contest with a $50 savings bond.

Jr. Amvets Coordinator White reported sending Father's Day cards to the Vietnam Mission at the United Nations, and discussed an installation.

Liaison Officer Torregrossa suggested "adopting" a resident of the Sheltered Care Home to whom gifts will be sent on various holidays. This was unanimously approved.

A ham and bean dinner is to be held at Post 51. The Auxiliary will meet June 27.

A $1,850 BOOST is given to Project Help by the Granite City Jaycees ($1,000) and Chemical Workers Local 50 ($850). Project Help buys and distributes canned goods and other necessities to approximately 200 unemployed families each month. Funds are totally from donations and fund-raising activities such as the downtown Granite City sidewalk sale June 29 and 30 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a barbecue in Bellemore Village July 13 and 14. Pictured from the left are Jaycee President Larry Beyer, Project Help Director George Cook, Local 50 President Bud York and Jaycees Treasurer Ray Sampson Jr.

Granite City AARP meets

Granite City Chapter 1340 of the American Association of Retired Persons conducted its meeting on June 13 with 186 in attendance.

The meeting opened with President Bernice Mercer leading the group in the Lord's Prayer, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Minutes of the April and May meetings were read by Irma Manning. The treasurer's report was read by Florence Austin and filed subject to audit. Four guests were welcomed.

Membership chairman Marge Hall reported the following new members were enrolled: Emylee Alford, Iva G. Blaylock, Homer and Doris Blumenthal, Joseph Feinberg, Dolores Koesterer, Martha Leftose, Donald Lucy, Ann Ramsey, Paul Schuler, George and Ann Taylor, Ralph and Pearl Sharp and Mildred Zikovich.

Legislative chairman Ruth Jensen reported booklets from Prudential Insurance are available for members. She also suggested members write congressmen and senators to ask for legislation to cut medical and hospital expenses for the elderly.

Anne Fure, community service chairman, reported on the spring workshop at Fairview Heights.

Those attending joined groups according to their committee assignments to discuss solving problems. Elean Hoover gave a report on her work as coordinator of Tax-Aide. She also reported on the Biennial Convention in St. Louis, April 25, 26 and 27. Mrs. Pace reported that there are 3,328 chapters in the country.

Retta Lombardi reported sending two get-well cards.

The July 10 meeting will be an indoor picnic at the township hall. There will be no meeting in August. Board meetings will be July 25 at 1:15 p.m. and Aug. 22 at the same time at the township hall.

The Senior Council Dance will be Monday, June 25 at the Township Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. Cake, coffee and punch will be served. A $1 donation will be collected at the door.

The Senior Companion Program needs volunteers. Further information may be obtained from Merna Kesterson at 676-3255. It was announced there will be a dance for senior citizens in August at the Granite City Center.

Cloverview Garden Club gets membership certificate

Mrs. William Lindsey, president of Calokita Garden Club and a past director of District V. Garden Clubs of Illinois, Inc., recently presented a flower arranging program on "miniatures" to the members of the Cloverview Garden Club and their guests at the Harold Brown Recreation Center. After the instruction period she helped members in making their own arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Carl Hueseman, Collinsville.

A potluck luncheon was served at noon and Mrs. George Knapp gave the invocation. Serving also on the committee were Mrs. Charles Gerdorf, Mrs. John Jenkins and Mrs. Eldon Meikamp. Guests attending were Mrs. Richard Kerch, president of Gadenaires Club; Mrs. Charles Kohl; Mrs. Carl Hueseman, president of Garden Study Club; Mrs. Wilmer Winter and Mrs. Bette Jo Kozar. Members attending besides the above mentioned were Mrs. B. C. O'Neill, president; Mrs. Robert McCauley; Mrs. W. G. McMurry; Mrs. Lawrence Melvin; Mrs. Lester Rhine; Mrs. Louise Sedlack; Mrs. Albert Taylor and Mrs. George Stearns.

Announcement was made of a standard flower show to be staged by the Creative Gardeners on June 23 in Jerseyville, Ill., at the First Baptist Church. Correspondence was received from Mrs. Robert Kelly, president of The Garden Clubs of Illinois, Inc., stating the 37th annual Conservation Conference will be held on Wednesday, July 11, at the Thornhill Conference Center at the Morton Arboretum, Lisle, Ill. This is a one-day meeting instead of the three-day conference usually conducted at Allerton Park, Monticello, Ill. in October. Speakers for the day will be Dr. Malcolm Swan, environmental educator at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb; Michael Balin, extension forester, at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, and Dr. Marian Hall, director of the Morton Arboretum. All affiliate clubs are being invited to attend.

Cloverview Club was presented with a membership certificate for 1984-85 by the National Council of State Garden Clubs. The club will recess in July and, on August 14, a trip is planned to visit the Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey, where a tour of the grounds and greenhouse will be conducted by Gary Greenwood, instructor of agriculture and horticulture.

Council of Seniors to host dance

The Granite City Council of Seniors will host a dance from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday, June 25, at the Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar.

The Alley Cats band will provide dance music, and refreshments will be served. A $1 donation will be collected at the door.

The township vans will not be in service for transportation to the dance.

preciation to all relatives, sages. Thanks to all our friends who so kindly pro-

IN LOVING memory of
CHARLES L. McQUAY, JR.,
June 21, 1984. Today recalls sad memories of a loved one gone to rest, those who have left you to cry and the ones who loved you best.
What we would give to see you today. You loved us and talked awhile, the blow was sudden the shock was severe, to pass with one we loved to dear, we often sit and think of you, things we used to say and do, we wonder why you had to die without a chance to say goodbye. Our hearts ache with sadness, our eyes shed many tears, God knows how much we miss him after your long years. Sadly missed by Mom, Pop and Sisters. 30 621

IN MEMORY of Stanley W.
Wojcik, June 21, 1978. We often sit and think of him when we are all alone. For Memory is the only friend that grief can not drive away.
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay. Our love for Stanley will still keep green and never fade away. - Sadly missed by
Wife and Children. 30 621

GC college student gives hospital a 'new direction'

For most college students, having a summer job is a way to earn extra money during the summer. But for Mary Brandt of Granite City, it means giving hundreds of hospital workers and patients a new direction. Miss Brandt has been hired this summer by DePaul Health Center, Bridgeton, Mo., to paint sections of the hospital with graphic designs and directional messages.

"It's really challenging," said Miss Brandt Tuesday. "But I like the work because it goes along with my major and I'm really helping the looks of the hospital."

MISS BRANDT was contacted earlier this year by the hospital after her Lindenwood College counselor recommended her for the job. She is majoring in fine arts at the college and has been the recipient of the "Most Dynamic Art Award" for the past two years.

"I came in for the interview and the next thing I knew I was drawing up designs for the walls," she said. Miss Brandt said she went to the library at the college to see what type of graphic designs were available, but could not find what she was looking for. "I wanted something simple, so I came up with the idea you see on the walls here."

The idea consists of three earth-toned directional lines and arrows running throughout the corridors. At the entrance of each hallway is the name of that particular section of the hospital.

ACCORDING to Miss Brandt, one of the biggest challenges she faced was the corridor leading to St. Anne's and St. Vincent's sections of the medical facility. "The hallway is 380 yards long," she said. "It took me about three weeks to finish it. At times the job seemed endless, but I'm happy with the results."

While describing her work, Miss Brandt was interrupted several times by nurses and hospital workers who complimented her on her work. "I just wanted to tell you what a good job you did on the corridor," a nurse said. "That hallway used to seem twice as long as it does now — the painting has really helped."

Miss Brandt said all of the workers at the hospital have been very receptive to her work. "I like it because everyone is friendly and I can set my own hours," she said. She currently works on the wall designs eight hours a day, five days a week. She is to be paid $10 an hour for her work.

MISS BRANDT said that the work does tend to become a bit tedious at times. "The surface of wall I'm painting on now is very porous," she said. "So I have to use a technique I learned in one of my painting classes this year."

This technique requires double taping around the outlines of the design and applying glue just inside the tape to prevent the graphics from running. "The taping and the glue take a long time in comparison to the actual painting," she said.

After the paint is applied, she said she must let the design dry for two to three hours before she can remove the tape. "I had never tried this technique on brick walls before, but so far, it's working pretty well," she said.

MISS BRANDT, who will be a junior at Lindenwood next year, said this job has been her first experience in design, painting. "Last year I worked on the Mayor's Paint Program in Granite City, but I had to turn it down this year," she said. "This is the only painting work I've done for pay."

She hopes to pursue a career in graphic designs for advertising after graduating. Until then, she is involved in student government, dorm government and is a resident hall assistant at the college. She recently received a $500 scholarship from the college for high academic achievement and leadership potential.

Miss Brandt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Brandt of 2800 State St.

ALL PERFORMANCES during the season will be in the Communications Building Theater on the Edwardsville campus. Two weeks later, Allen's sexual farce "Play It Again, Sam" will take the Summer Show-Biz stage. This story of a New York film critic, inspired by his own insecurity and inspired by the ghost of Humphrey Bogart in his pursuit of women has gone through a long run and several revivals on Broadway. It was also made into a highly successful film, starring Allen and Diane Keaton.

"Play It Again, Sam" runs July 19, 20 and 21 at 8:15 p.m. and on Sunday, July 22, at 7 p.m.

THE PRODUCTION of the musical "My Fair Lady" will bring the season to a grand climax. The musical director of the Lerner and Lowe classic is Byron Brown, currently the director of the Musical Theatre Program of the Repertory Theatre of St. Louis.

"My Fair Lady" is based on Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" and shows the effects of the transformation by language of a poor cockney girl into a woman of class and proper intonation and manner. It offers such songs as "The Street Where You Live," "Wouldn't It Be Lovely?" "Get Me to the Church on Time," "The Rain in Spain," and "I Could Have Danced All Night."

There will be seven performances of the musical, starting Aug. 2, 3, 4 and then Aug. 9, 10, 11, at 8:15 p.m., with a final show at 7 p.m. on Aug. 12.

SUBSCRIPTION AND individual show ticket information is available by calling the Department of Theater and Dance at SIUE, 1-692-2773. Parking is free, and there is no charge for ticket exchanges.

Dialogue on drugs

A column by
The Granite City Chemical People Task Force

The history of the marijuana plant (cannabis sativa) dates back to 2737 B.C., when a pharmacist, Shen-Nung, a Chinese emperor, included in his pharmacopeia a description of the marijuana plant. Shen-Nung recommended its use for female weakness, gout, rheumatism, malaria, beriberi, constipation and absent-mindedness.

The plant, also known as hemp, also was used for centuries to make clothes from the fibers by the Chinese around the 15th Century B.C.

Although cannabis is not indigenous to India, the natives of India are recorded as far back as 1000 B.C. as using cannabis for its euphoric effects. It is believed that the plant was brought to India from somewhere in Central Asia by the Iranian tribes.

The people of India employed the resin of the plant specifically for its psychotrophic effect and perfected its use for this purpose. The plant became known as the "happy plant" and called "bhang."

Medical use at this time was for curing dysentery and sunstroke, clearing phlegm, quickening digestion, sharpening the appetite, freshening the intellect and giving alertness to the body and gaiety to the mind.

The next reference to the plant comes from Pliny, a Roman naturalist in the First Century A.D. Pliny stated that when cannabis was taken internally with myrrh and wine, it caused "all sorts of visionary forms" and precipitated "outbreaks of immoderate laughter."

A century later, the Greek physician Galen reported the use of cannabis as a confectionary dessert, which when taken after meals with drinks, caused exciting pleasure, created warmth and, if overindulged in, affected the head. Galen recommended its use for extinguishing flatulency, curing earaches and other problems.

By the Sixth Century, cannabis had spread throughout most of Europe and Arabian physicians employed the drug as an aphrodisiac. About 850 A.D., an Arabian physician noted that the plant could cause headaches.

In 1090 A.D., Hasan-Tbn-Sabbah acquired a strong mountain fortress. Hasan used a concoction made of hashish to drug young men in order to perform political murders for him. It is believed the word assassin, or perhaps hash, were both derived from Hasan.

Until the 13th Century, the resin only of the plant was used, but the Africans discovered the intoxicating effects of the plant by breathing its vapors. The system was simple — they threw the weed on the fire, then stood around inhaling the smoke. Over the centuries, crude pipes were developed to strengthen the effects of smoking cannabis and finally pottery makers in North Africa started making water pipes to cool the smoke and remove some of the irritants.

In the 15th Century, when Columbus was attempting to prove the world is round, cannabis was known and used in the New World as a euphoric producing agent.

In the late 16th Century, England wanted to increase its shipping fleet and depended on the Dutch East Indies for supplies of hemp (cannabis) to make sails. Disagreements embroiled between England and the Dutch East Indies and England decided to make use of its New World Colony, America.

In 1611, near Jamestown, Va., hemp (cannabis was purposely planted in America. By 1630, half of the colonists wore clothing made of hemp fibers.

About 1770, steam power came into play and the need for ship sails disappeared. About the same time, Eli Whitney discovered the cotton gin and this decreased the need for hemp fibers for clothing. The plants were allowed to go to seed and return to weed status.

The 19th Century history of the cannabis plant will be continued in the next column.

Anyone having questions or comments about drug or alcohol use may write to Dialogue on drugs, Post Office Box 278, Granite City, Ill., 62040. The task force meets at 7 p.m. every Thursday at Maryville School, Room 140.

City exploring legal remedy to sewer repair problems

According to City Attorney John Papa, the city is exploring legal remedies to problems surrounding the sewer break work done by Davinroy Contractors, Inc., Cahokia. These sewer repairs are being funded by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and Community Development.

Mac Warfield, superintendent of streets, said that the contractor has only completed work on one of the nine sewer breaks it has been contracted to repair. The company entered into an agreement with the city Nov. 17 of last year.

Also, Warfield said that the city is not happy with the way the company has left areas surrounding the sewer break work. "I don't know what Davinroy's problem is," he said. "He has literally torn up people's yards."

He said one yard in particular (sewer break number 16 on Clark Avenue) has never been cleaned up. "I wish you could have seen the yard before work was done on the sewer break. It looked like a picture," he said. He told the owner the city would take care of cleaning up his yard. He has no business telling the people the city will do this.

When he (Davinroy) first went in there, he told the people he would grade their yard and give them a sack of seed to plant when he got done. Do you believe that? I want to know what we are going to do about this. No wonder we can't get other people to give us easements onto their property to get the work done," Warfield stated.

"I've been up night and day answering people's complaints about the breaks he is repairing. It's high time we find out what we are going to do. This is a disgrace," he contended.

Papa said that the information he has on the contract is that there has been no time limit set for the completion of the repair work. He said the contractor could use rain and construction delays in defending its position.

Papa said he contacted the contractor last week and that the contractor said he would give the situation his "prompt attention."

In other sewer break news, Mayor Paul Schuler read a statement on the status of the sewer breaks.

In the letter, Schuler said he has raised a total of $1,000,000 without the necessity of spending local tax dollars. He said, however, that it has been necessary to spend $120,000 from the city's matching funds for the FEMA grants.

He said the condition of the city sewers are of "great concern" and that he is taking steps to correct the problems.

"Presently, Mr. Warfield, superintendent of streets, and I have formulated a plan to repair and maintain the sewer lines," Schuler said. "Based upon the experience we now have, we believe that the city employees can repair and maintain the sewers at a great savings to the taxpayers."

"This plan has been implemented and we have every reason to expect that it will be successful. I have also had a report and survey of the sewers made by Sverdrup & Parcel, which outlines the problem and concurs in our approach to its solution."

Schuler said State Representative Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) is attempting to help the city by the introducing a bill that would give the city $200,000 from the Senate for the repairs.

"I am in contact with (U.S.) Senator (Alan J.) Dixon and Congressman (Melvin) Price," he said.

"As soon as they inform me that it would be advantageous to the city for me to meet with any federal officials, Mr. Warfield and I are ready to go. The sewer breaks of 1983 and 1984 presented the elected officials and citizens of Granite City with another crisis, but, with the cooperation of all officials involved, we are in the process of solving the problem on both the long and short term," the mayor said.

DRUG CHARGE DISMISSED

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson this spring dismissed a March 6 controlled substance possession charge against Edward Delidker, 30, of 3834 Lake St., Pontoon Beach. The dismissal was requested by the Madison County state's attorney.

Residents will meet Saturday on zoning issue

Residents living in the Norwood and Briarcliff Subdivisions are being invited to a special meeting to discuss the former Johnson School rezoning issue at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 23, at 1571 Norwood Dr.

Persons living in this area will discuss the outcome of the residents' committee—Knights of Columbus negotiating meeting that is to be held at noon that day.

All interested persons are being urged to attend the meeting.

AAA closes here

AAA Credit Service, Inc., closed its doors at 1904 Delmar Ave., June 15 and is conducting all its business from its new headquarters at 700 S. 59th St., Belleville.

Richard Lauck, president of AAA, said the consolidation of operations at Belleville will enable more collectors to work evening hours five nights a week, thus better serving customers.

The new telephone number is 344-4417. For those outside of the free calling area, a toll-free Wats line has been installed and that number is 1-800-227-3200.

All employees of the Granite City office were offered jobs in the Belleville office, Lauck says.

RELEASED ON BOND

Robert L. Brumitt, 28, of 2437 Dewey Ave., was arrested there early this week on a warrant alleging failing to pay or appear on a charge of not having a valid driver's license. He was released after posting a $52 cash bond.

DAN GRAFF, son of Mr. and Mrs. William (Carole) Graff of 3209 Erin Drive, has recently returned from a three-day seminar at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill. The seminar, conducted by the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation, was intended to motivate tomorrow's leaders today. Outstanding sophomore students attending the seminar met with leaders of business and government for discussion groups. Graff, a student of Granite City High School, was sponsored by the First National Bank of Granite City.
